WORLD HOLDS BREATH, WAITS HITLER SPEECH

Warlike Atmosphere Prevails as Fuehrer Prepares Vital Address for Today.

SECRECY MAINTAINED

Annexation of Sudeten Areas of Czechoslovakia, Demand Expected in Talk.

BULLETIN

CONGRESS HALL, NURNBERG, Germany — (INS) — With the eyes of the world upon him, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler started his history-making foreign policy speech to the Nazi party congress at 7:15 p. m. today (1:15 p. m. EST). The fuehrer started out with a long and, to foreign observers, somewhat dull resume of the Nazi party's history since 1923.

(By International News Service)

NURNBERG, Germany — The hand that once wielded a paint brush today held the fate of European peace, and every important statesman in Europe and most of the world turned his ears toward Nurnberg to hear Adolf Hitler make what may be the most vital speech since the World war.

Airplanes in great mass flights filled the air over medieval Nurnberg, tanks wheeled on drill grounds, and thousands of soldiers displayed Germany's armed might on the final day of the Nazi party congress, lending a warlike atmosphere to the anxiously-awaited address.

(Hitler's speech will be broadcast by major American chains beginning about 1:30 p. m. E S T.)

Annexation Hinted.

The sole foretaste of what Hitler has in mind to tell the world was given yesterday, when he left little doubt that Germany will be satisfied with nothing less than outright annexation of the Sudeten areas of Czechoslovakia, with their 3,500,000 Germanic population.

Hitler today stuck relentlessly to his favorite tactics of keeping Europe guessing, and issued orders to all officials to remain silent as the most effective prelude to the approaching speech.

The fuehrer worked in his hotel all morning completing the draft of the address, but it was freely

TENSION GROWS

Pecora Still Undecided on Hines Mistrial Plea.

NEW YORK—(INS)—With the Hines case teetering on the tight rope of a legal technicality, court was recessed until 2 o'clock this afternoon without Judge Ferdinand Pecora announcing his decision on a defense motion that a mistrial be declared and the proceedings against Tammany Leader James J. Hines be thrown out of court.

Judge Pecora remained in his chambers all forenoon consulting legal authorities and considering memoranda submitted by attorneys for both sides.

At noon the judge sent word he would not reconvene court until 2 o'clock. A clerk of court made the announcement and the spectators filed out in a dazed manner.

Marilyn Meseke, blond and 20, from neighboring Marion, today was "Miss America of 1938." She won the title yesterday at Atlantic City, although Earl Carroll, show producer, differed with the judges, and himself chose Claire James, 19, of Los Angeles, as the most beautiful girl in America. Carroll was not a judge. Miss Meseke is shown here with her crown and her award

Brethren Hit Liquor Sales Near Churches

Resolution Adopted at Closing Session of Conference Ask State Board To Act; Pastors for 60 Churches Assigned.

With the assignment of 60 pastors and the adoption of a resolution against the issuance of liquor permits to establishments within 500 yards of a church, the 53rd annual East Ohio Conference of the Church of the United Brethren in Christ came to a close here yesterday.

The resolution opposing the sale of liquor in church districts was forwarded to the Ohio board of liquor control and came after petitions to close a tavern a few hundred feet from the First United Brethren church, where the five-day conference was held, had failed to bring results, conference officials said.

It was pointed out that a tavern on Park avenue east is located within a short distance of three churches, the United Brethren, First Methodist Episcopal and St. John's Evangelical.

Renamed Mansfield Pastor.

Rev. James L. Boyer, one of the youngest pastors in the conference, was reassigned to the Mansfield church. Rev. Boyer has been stationed here for the last three years.

There were only seven changes of pastors in the conference assignments, two of them in the Mansfield area. Rev. E. K. Rogers was shifted from Paradise Hill to Millersburg, and Rev. Robert E. Airhart, of Canton, who was or-

MARION GIRL'S TOPS IN BEAUTY

'Disgusting,' Her Dad Says of Ruckus Over Choosing New 'Miss America.'

(By Associated Press)

MARION—Marion's blond dance teacher, 20-year-old Marilyn Meseke, is "Miss America 1938" by sanction of the judges at Atlantic City and papa C. H. Meseke said today the judges were right—even if Earl Carroll doesn't think so.

He listened patiently while reporters told him how the New York producer called the decision "disgusting" and forthwith crowned "Miss California," runner-up to Marilyn, "True Miss America 1938."

"Yeh, disgusting," Meseke ejaculated. "It's disgusting for a man to act that way. The whole thing looks ridiculous."

He spoke, with a trace of emotion, of Carroll's coronation of "Miss California" in a swank New York hotel last night after the beauty, Claire James, 19, of Los Angeles, departed hastily from Atlantic City.

"But I ain't worrying," said Meseke, "because Marilyn was named by the judges and they

FRANK B. WILLIAMS, Jr.
. . . new vice president

ARTHUR E. ALLEN
. . . resigns post

ALLEN RESIGNS COMPOSITION WITH WESTINGHOUSE

Leaves Company, Effective Today; New Jersey Man Named Successor.

DUE TO ARRIVE TODAY

Retiring Executive Had Been With Company Since 1902, in Mansfield 4 Years.

Arthur E. Allen, who has been in charge of the Mansfield plant of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company and the company's merchandising activities for the past four years and nine months, has resigned his position, effective today, an announcement from the company said today.

He will be succeeded by Frank B. Williams, jr., who comes to Mansfield from the Diehl Manufacturing company, at Elizabethport, N. J. The Diehl company is the electrical division of the Singer Manufacturing company

Allen, whose resignation was entirely unexpected in Mansfield, was a vice president of Westinghouse in charge of merchandising

The company's announcement said Williams had been named to the same post.

Williams was to arrive here today. George Bucher, Westinghouse president, was expected in Mansfield today, also.

Praises Associates.

Allen spoke warmly today of his associates in the Mansfield Westinghouse plant.

In a statement to The News-Journal today, he said:

"The past four years which I have spent in Mansfield have been most interesting and happy years, and, I trust, worthwhile ones from the standpoint of the merchandising division.

"It is quite beyond me to find words adequate to express my admiration for the loyalty and enthusiasm which the men and women of the merchandising division have always displayed. Their splendid ability is solely responsible for the results which have been achieved, and I would like to take this opportunity to express to all of them my deepest appreciation for the support which they have always given me.

"Likewise, my relationships with the people of Mansfield, both business and social, will always be a very delightful memory, and I sincerely trust that the many friendships which I have made will remain unbroken during the coming years."

Has Varied Experience.

Williams, before his appointment to the Westinghouse position, was vice president and sales manager of the Diehl company. A graduate of Drexel Institute, he became production manager of the company in 1915. In 1918 he joined the sales department of the Western Electric company, and in 1920 was made power apparatus sales manager in the New York district. When the Graybar Electric company was founded, he held a similar position with it. He returned to the Diehl company in 1927 as

PAYS PENALTY

O. S. R. Trusty, Free 18 Hours, Given 2 Years Extra Time.

Carl Adkins, 18, Mansfield reformatory trusty, had 18 hours of stolen freedom yesterday and today he received the penalty—two years added to his sentence.

Adkins was captured by Sheriff E. P. Long yesterday noon as he hid in a clump of underbrush on a farm on West Fourth street road six miles from the institution after spending the night in the woods. He escaped Saturday afternoon from the institution poultry farm, located outside the walls where he was at work as a trusty.

Supt. Arthur L. Glattke said that Adkin's sentence had been extended the usual two years. Adkins was committed Jan. 8, from Hocking county, to serve from one to 20 years on a charge of auto theft.

REGISTRATION HOURS EXTENDED

Election Board To Be Open Until 8 p. m. Tuesday, 6:30 Next Day.

Mansfielders who have neglected to register or transfer for the special school bond election a week from tomorrow will have plenty of time to establish their eligibility to vote before the deadline Wednesday night.

George C. Balliet, chairman of the board of elections, announced today that the elections office in the courthouse basement will be open from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. Tuesday and from 8 a. m. to 6:30 p. m. Wednesday. The closing hour Wednesday is required by law.

The election board office also will be open through the noon hour both days, Balliet said.

State Orders Third Floor Closed at John Simpson

Every Section Shares In City's Proposed School Building Plan

Calls for Two New Junior Highs, Improvements to Nine Others.

Eleven schools in every section of Mansfield will share in the $1,000,000 school building program, if the board of education's proposed $550,000 bond issue passes at a special election Sept. 20.

The major part of the funds, or $900,000, will provide two new junior high schools. One will replace the present John Simpson building on West Fourth street, and the other will be at Cline avenue and Wood street.

So far as employment is concerned, every part of the city will be helped by the building activities, and Mansfield building supply dealers will get orders for the materials to be used in the construction of the new buildings and the elementary building improvements.

Bowman Would Get $26,000.

The Bowman school in the northern section of the city will receive $26,000 in improvements to the toilet facilities and modernization of sanitation equipment.

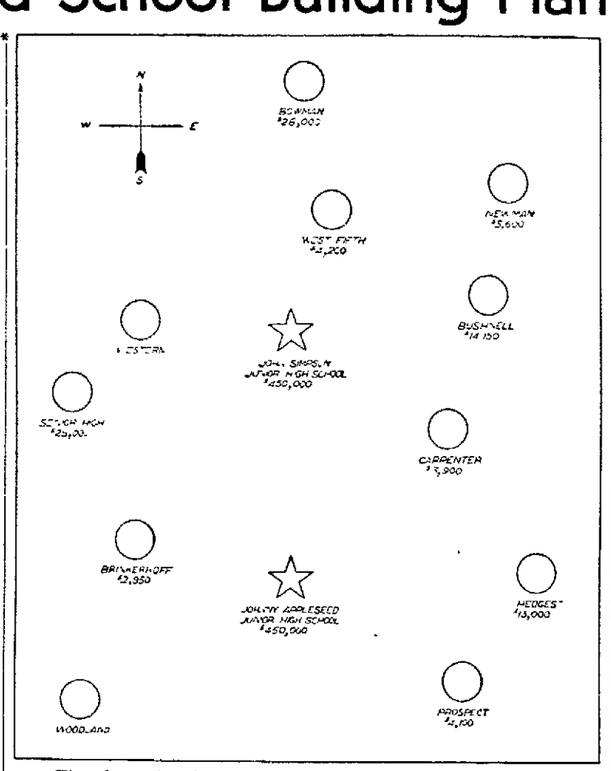
Improvements costing $14,150 will be made at the Bushnell school on East Fourth street, and the Hedges school will get $13,000 worth of modern equipment, under the building schedule.

At Senior high school where expansion of vocational and shop courses has caused crowding of classrooms, a new shop addition would be built at an estimated cost of $25,000.

Other schools and the amounts which will be spent on them are: Newman, $5,600; West Fifth street, $4,200; Prospect, $4,100; Carpenter, $3,900; and Brinkerhoff, $2,950.

Only 2 Not In Program.

Only the Woodland school, built in 1936, and the W e s t e r n avenue school, erected in 1911, are considered modern and safe by the school board and will not share in the improvement program.



The above sketch shows how money will be spent to modernize Mansfield's school buildings under the proposed $1,000,000 building program. The city's share, a $550,000 bond issue, will be voted on Sept. 20 at a special election. The program provides for two new junior high schools (indicated by stars on the sketch) and improvements to nine other buildings. Every section of the city will benefit from the program. Only the Woodland school, built recently, and the Western Avenue school, which was erected in 1911, are modern buildings and will not require improvements, school officials said.

In cases where the expense for modernization is higher, such as the Bushnell and Hedges schools, board members pointed out that additions must be built for rest rooms.

Mansfield must pay only $550,000 of the building cost, provided voters approve the bond issue. The proposal lost by a small margin at the primary election in August.

The federal government has allocated $450,000 in PWA money for the building program, but the bond issue must pass before the PWA money can be used.

NINE ROOMS CONDEMNED AS FIRE HAZARDS

School Board Meets Tonight to Cut Class Schedules to Half-Day Sessions.

1,350 PUPILS AFFECTED

Officials Assert Order 'No Surprise'; Building 47 Years Old.

The third floor of the John Simpson junior high school building was ordered closed today for classroom purposes following inspection of the building by the Ohio department of industrial relations.

Classes were held in the nine rooms on the floor as usual today, but the board of education will meet tonight with no alternative than to cut class schedules at the school to half-day sessions to comply with the order.

Get Half Holidays.

The plan will mean half holidays for the 1,350 pupils in the school, with a part of them attending classes in the morning and the others in the afternoon, H. J. Dotson, principal of the building, said.

Class periods would be shortened and the day's schedule would begin at 8 a. m. and run to 4 p. m. under the plan. No recitations would be dropped, Dotson said. About 325 pupils attend classes on the third floor.

The order condemning the top floor of the building as a fire hazard was "no surprise" to school board members and Supt. W. L. Miller, they asserted.

Auditorium Already Abandoned.

Use of the third floor auditorium for public meetings was discontinued several years ago on an order of the state department of building inspection. Music and vision conservation classes have been conducted in the room, however, Dotson said.

With the order for immediate closing of the third floor of the building were recommendations for the construction of handrails on stairways over six feet wide, handrails on both sides of steps leading up from the manual training room, and ventilation hoods for stoves in the domestic science rooms.

The order, signed by O. B Chapman, director of the state department of public relations, requested compliance with the recommenda-

Well-Rid of Two-Timer, Adviser Says

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 24 years old and for a long time have been in love with a girl of 21. We had been going together "steady" for about ten months, when I left town to get a better education so that I could earn more money. We had planned to marry when I returned. My only reason for going away was my ambition to fit myself for a better position when I married her. I told her to go out with other boys, if she cared to, and have a good time during my absence.

These past two years have been lonely; I haven't had a single date with another girl, and only carried on a conversation with those I met, to be polite. I sort of depended on her letters, and the thought of our coming marriage was a source of happiness to me, and a bright look into the future.

I came back with enough money to make a good payment on a home, and a trade which would enable me to make a good salary. I went to see her and found out that she had been going with another man all the time I was gone and was even engaged to be married. No mention had even been made in her letters to me.

Would you suggest I have a talk with her? I don't believe I can ever care for another girl; I love this one too much.

HARRY

If you'll let me make a prediction, my dear Harry, my prophesy is that the day will come when you'll thank your lucky stars you didn't marry this two-timing young lady. If she had had the honesty to write and confess to you that she'd fallen in love with someone else, you would have forgiven her, I'm sure. But keeping on with you for two years, meanwhile becoming engaged to another man—well, her future husband has my condolences! Dependable girls do not act that way. You're fortunate, even if you don't realize it. Some day you'll meet a good loyal girl, and I wish you the best of luck.

Proper Fit All-Important To Clothes

By MME. QUI VIVE

When steel-riveted, double-turreted corsets went into the discard, the fine art of fitting a dress took a crash. In those days the ready-made was the penalty for being poor; a lady of wealth and fashion had every frock and coat made to order. A great deal of time was spent selecting fabrics and designs, having elegant duds fitted. It was not unusual for the cash customer to throw a faint. Too reasons for that; a long period of standing; laced stays that pulled in her waistline to eighteen or twenty inches. The poor darling breathed up in her wishbone, couldn't eat an adult-sized meal.

With the body free, the loose fit came in. When the depression hit everybody's purse, cheap clothes became fashionable. Unless you'd lost a lot of money and had to economize you had no social standing. Women were less particular about how their clothes were draped on their bodies. They lost—many of them—the fine sense of line.

If a woman is educated on the dress question she will know intuitively the width of the shoulders, how a sleeve should be set into the bodice, where the girdle should be placed, just how much play the fabric should have over the bust, around the waist and hips. This dress sense is of great value; it means that she will be faultlessly dressed.

A clever dressmaker can disguise the poor points of a figure, accentuate the good ones. She can make a narrow chest look wider, give an uplift to a bust that does not qualify by using tucks below it. She can create an illusion of slenderness to a plump shape by using dark solid-colored fabrics, long lines, few decorations. She has the seeing eye. She will make suggestions that the cash customer will accept and for which she will be grateful.

The real start in the effort to be sartorially lovely is in the foundation garment. The right pattern will work magic, the wrong one is next to useless. Yet how many women seek the services of an expert corsetiere, abide by her judgment? A corset manufacturer once told me that his season's offerings included 400 different models. "There are," he explained, "many more than 400 different figures.

Next to line, color is most important. The dress fabric comes in for heavy consideration, but if lines are good and color entrancing, richness of fabric can be dispensed with. Every woman loves beautiful materials. It is grand to wear them But they are not essential to chic. A well-cut, beautifully designed gingham frock is worth ten gowns of gorgeous fabric that are lacking in correctness of cut.

If a robe isn't flattering it is a failure; it is merely dry goods. Don't be content with "just anything." Be fussy, take your time.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

WE DID not have to wait long for the arrival of Philip Veritzen at the farm Neither Lillian nor I wished to risk the element of surprise at the travelers' arrival in any of the household, and by the time we had satisfied Mother Graham's avid curiosity, had instructed Katie to have fresh coffee and a "snack" ready if the travelers should desire it, and had waited Jim to watch for their arrival so that there should be no questioning or delay on the part of the guards set round the place, the clock marked the time which we had estimated as that which a taxi would make from the airport to the farm.

"Nothing to do now but twiddle our fingers," Lillian said as we came back to the library, where Dicky, whom we also had told of the impending arrivals, was reading and smoking, palpably nervous over the delay in starting for the city with Hank and Bill. But he had acquiesced promptly in Lillian's demand that he "stick around on the job" until Phil Veritzen's "hash" was settled, and had even promised his willing assistance in settling it.

Hears Car Coming.

"I don't think we'll even have time for that," I smiled as my ears caught the sound of a motor car coming along the road toward the farm. "There's a car coming."

"Those ears of yours!" Lillian sighed enviously, and then her face brightened.

"You're right," she said "I hear it now."

"It's turning in the gate," Dicky said, rising. "I suppose I would better go out and welcome the travelers."

He took a step toward the door, but Lillian had him firmly by the sleeve.

"Restrain your impulses," she told him while my throat muscles loosened from the construction which had seized them when he spoke of stepping outside the door on this night so full of lurking unseen, unknown danger.

"In the first place," she said, "while there probably isn't any more danger, there's no use of your taking any needless risks."

"Poor Jim's taking them," Dicky replied stubbornly

Won't Risk a Shot.

"No, he isn't." Lillian replied coolly. "Use the brains with which the good God supplied you, a meager equipment, I'll admit, but still adequate for this particular problem. If there is anybody out there with a high-powered, long-range rifle, he isn't going to risk a shot on Jim or the guards. He knows they're not his meat. But if the door opens, and anyone is silhouetted in the doorway, he may take a chance on the figure's being Olga or Olina, and toss a shot this way."

"My Dear," Dicky expostulated with a grin, "do I look like Olga or Olina?"

"You might," Lillian retorted, "if Olga or Olina were dressed in masculine clothing, a ruse which would naturally occur to a hidden watcher coming from the nest of foul conspirators who are gunning for the royal women. So keep the little shirt on, Dicky-bird, and keep indoors. It's too late for the hospitable gesture, anyway Jim's bringing them in. Now don't be an idiot just because you know how. Keep to one side of the door when you open it."

For a wonder, Dicky obeyed her adjuration, although I knew that he was irritated by her caution, and that if I had issued the same warning he probably would have disregarded it. But the habit of obeying Lillian's rarely expressed wishes is ingrained deeply in his make-up, and to my relief, and, I knew, to Lillian's also, he kept to one side of the door leading to the veranda, as at Jim's knock he unlocked the door and threw it open.

"Welcome to the farmhouse," I said smiling and extending one hand to the great producer and the other to Noel. 'But please come to this side of the door, Jim, will you bring in the luggage at once, please? But be careful at the door."

Introductions Trouble Most of Us

By JOAN DURHAM

(AP Feature Service Writer)

What etiquette problems bother most of the people much of the time?

Top-of-the-listers include:

Who should be introduced to whom? Answer: A younger person is presented to an older, a gentleman to a lady, a less distinguished to a more distinguished individual.

May a woman be addressed by her first name and her husband's last? Only on a legal document or when she uses that name professionally. Widows retain their husband's names. Divorcees usually resume their maiden names or use a combination of their own and their former husbands' last names

Where the Bride Stands.

Where should the bride stand at a wedding? At the bridegroom's left The maid of honor is at her left. The best man stands to the right of the bridegroom. The bride's family occupies the left side of the church, the bridegroom's family the right.

What initials should be used in marking a bride's linen and silver? Customary are the three initials of her maiden name. Frequently used are: (a) husband's first, bride's first, husband's last; (b) bride's first, bride's last, husband's last

How much should a tip be? Ten per cent of the bill is a good average. Don't leave less than a dime in restaurants in which the tables are covered with cloths.

May a man let a woman walk nearest the curb? Not under ordinary circumstances If the inside were covered with refuse, for example, and the outside had just been cleaned then, of course, he would let her walk in the clean area.

Portrays Small-Town Girl.

Janet Gaynor plays the role of a small-town girl in New York City in her latest picture, "Three Loves Has Nancy," current at the Madison. She meets Robert Montgomery and Franchot Tone and the two are rivals for the girl's hand. Montgomery starts things rolling when he invites her to visit the Big City. And then a third rival steps into the picture. Supporting the three are Reginald Owen, Clair Dodd and Guy Kibbee.

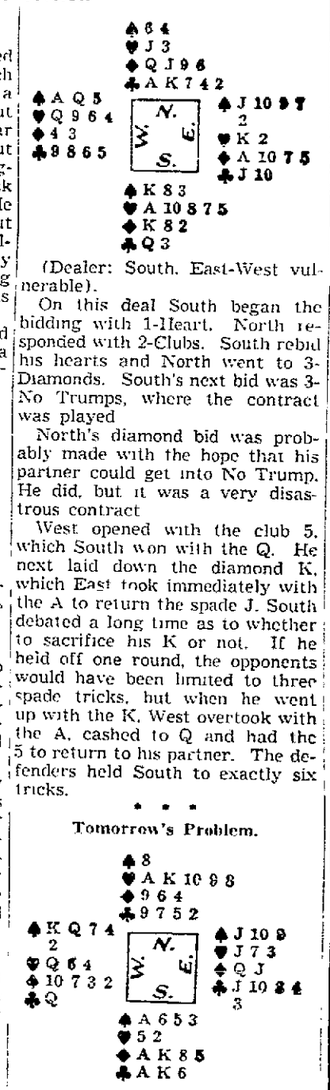
"The Authority on Authorities"

BORDERLINE HANDS

WHENEVER a player makes an opening bid an a doubtful hand, he takes a chance. His partner may follow with other calls for which he has ample strength, but not enough to make up for the shadyness of the first hand. As a consequence, the side may get inordinately high and take a bad beating. The brave who take such chances reap their occasional rewards from them, but also must be prepared to expect occasional reverses



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable).

On this deal South began the bidding with 1-Heart. North responded with 2-Clubs. South rebid his hearts and North went to 3-Diamonds. South's next bid was 3-No Trumps, where the contract was played

North's diamond bid was probably made with the hope that his partner could get into No Trump. He did, but it was a very disastrous contract

West opened with the club 5, which South won with the Q. He next laid down the diamond K, which East took immediately with the A to return the spade J. South debated a long time as to whether to sacrifice his K or not. If he held off one round, the opponents would have been limited to three spade tricks, but when he went up with the K, West overtook with the A, cashed to Q and had the 5 to return to his partner. The defenders held South to exactly six tricks.

Tomorrow's Problem.

What defense by West ruins South's chances for making 3-No Trump?

Short Cuts Aid Cooking Experts

By ALICE LYNN BAREY

Modern magic in cookery, wrought with the aid of cracker crumbs or sweetened condensed or evaporated milk, has made kitchen chores at mealtime a pleasant task.

Ever have to whip up a nice little something after you are all dressed for the party or for company? It used to be a nuisance, but now it's a positive delight. So here are some short-cut delicacies made with sweetened condensed milk that can be mixed in five minutes and need no utensil except a measuring cup, a mixing bowl and a spoon. There's no flour to sift, no eggs to beat, no butter and eggs to cream. And, best of all, they are positively failure proof so that there is no danger in leaving them until the last minute to make. You will be sure of an enticing batch of crisp dainties that will win compliments from the shyest beau, the most non-committal husband or the most critical in-law.

Coconut Macaroons.

Coconut macaroons are always favorites and a real guest delicacy. Mix one-half cup sweetened condensed milk and two cups shredded coconut together. Add one teaspoon vanilla, if desired. Drop by spoonsful on a buttered baking sheet one inch apart. Bake in moderate oven (350 F.) for about 10 minutes or until a delicate brown. Remove from pan at once. This recipe makes about 24 delicious daintics.

Cracker crumbs can be used to make a delicious, quickly-made sweet. Ingredients include one cup cream, one cup "after dinner" mints, crushed, and one package crumbled chocolate snaps. Beat cream and fold in crushed mints and chocolate snap cookies. Serve in small glasses. This recipe makes six portions and takes five minutes.

Ice-Box Pudding.

Delicately-colored chocolate mint delight may be made by using colored—green, rose or yellow—"after dinner" mints.

Ace ice-box pudding is easily made if you can get a two or three-hour start ahead of your expected guests. All that is needed is a cup and a half of apple sauce 18 graham crackers and some whipped cream. Fold crumbled graham crackers into apple sauce. Pour into pudding dish and place in refrigerator to chill for two or three hours. Serve with whipped cream. This recipe makes six portions.

Apple juice is rich in pectin (that jellying product) and it can be added to other fruit or berry juices to make delicious jellies. Try 3 parts apple and 1 part raspberry or 2 parts apple and 1 part strawberry. Equal parts plum and apple juice can be used.

Use cream cheese added to French or boiled dressing for fruit salads and plain French or piquant dressing for fish or meat salads, mayonnaise or plain boiled dressing can also be used for this latter type.

* * *

Biscuit dough is either rolled or patted out to ½-inch thickness. The biscuit cutter is floured before cutting each biscuit, simply by dipping the cutter in a bowl of flour.

My Neighbor Says:

There are some seasons and some gardens in which tomatoes seem to ripen very slowly. This is largely a matter of temperature, soil and moisture. It is natural that tomatoes will ripen more quickly in a light soil than in one which is heavy, but the free use of water will be a help in any garden In a cool summer, however, it may be necessary to pick the fruit and ripen it under glass in order to save the last end of the crop. Some garden makers spread straw or papers in the bottom of a cold frame, then putting on the glass. The heat of the sun ripens the tomatoes very quickly, but care must be taken to give plenty of ventilation. If plants are pulled up by the roots at the coming of frost, they can be hung tops down from the rafters in an attic and will keep on ripening their fruit until Christmas is close at hand.

Blanc mange may be easily removed from a mold if a cloth is dipped in hot water, wrung until it will not drip and wrapped around mold. Turn bottom of mold upward on a flat dish and shake gently to dislodge contents.

To Relieve BABY'S HEAD COLD Misery

DO THIS: Massage his throat, chest, and back with Vicks VapoRub and tuck him into bed. Next, put a spoonful of VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water; place a newspaper or sheet over the child's head like a tent, covering the bowl too, so the medicated vapors can be inhaled for several minutes. This treatment loosens phlegm—clears air-passages—checks tendency to cough—relieves local congestion. Long after he relaxes into peaceful sleep, VapoRub's poultice-and-vapor action is still bringing relief—and you can get a good night's rest too.

Broiled Food Smart and Attractive

By PAULINE SCHOFIELD
Director of Home Economics, Ohio Fuel Gas Company.

Broiled food is smart food—attractive to look at, easy to prepare, delicious to eat. It's just as good for entire meals as for the occasional steak party, and left-overs reheated in your broiler will be transformed into new, interesting dishes.

What meats are good for broiling? All the tender cuts of beef, veal, ham, fresh pork, and lamb; less tender cuts, such as round steak, provided it has been ground or "cubed."

Broiled Dinner.
Broiled Steak
Bananas Wrapped with Bacon
Tomatoes with Cheese
Baking Powder Biscuits
Caramel Custard
Cookies

A—1½ pounds steak, 1½ inches thick
B—4 bananas
4 strips bacon
C—2 large tomatoes
Melted butter
Grated cheese
Paprika
D—2 cups sifted bread flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons shortening
¾ cup milk

A—Place steak on heated broiler pan; brush with melted fat if it is very lean. Broil from 7 to 10 minutes or until brown on one side, turn.

B—Add bananas wrapped in bacon.

C—Add tomatoes cut in halves with cut surface spread with butter, sprinkled with grated cheese and paprika.

D—Baking biscuits at same time with broiler meal presupposes an oven and broiler with the same flame. Sift dry ingredients. Cut shortening into mixture. Gradually add milk, mixing to a soft dough. Toss on a floured board and pat slightly to ½ inch thickness. Shape with a biscuit cutter. Place on a greased baking sheet and bake in the oven while broiling the dinner.

Grilled Ham Dinner.
Grilled Ham Rolls
with Baked Beans
Glazed Stuffed Prunes
and Orange Slices
Buttered Asparagus
with Cheese Sauce
Chilled Grapenut Custard

A—6 medium-thick slices broiled ham
Prepared mustard
1 cup baked beans
1 tablespoon minced onion
Toothpicks
B—6 slices orange, ½ inch thick
6 large prunes, cooked and pitted
½ cup chopped nuts
Granulated sugar
C—1 large can asparagus tips
Salt and pepper
D—Melted butter

A—Spread slices of ham with mustard; mix beans and onions and place a large spoonful on ham slices. Roll ham over beans, fasten with toothpicks. Arrange along center of broiler pan.

B—Place orange slices on broiler pan. Stuff cooked prunes with nuts, roll in granulated sugar. Put one prune on each orange slice.

C—Drain liquid from asparagus, arrange on broiler.

D—Brush ham, orange slices, and asparagus with melted butter. Place pan in preheated broiler compartment. Broil 10 to 15 minutes, or until browned. Serve immediately. Sprinkle grated cheese over the asparagus during broiling, or serve with sauce made by melting grated cheese in a well-seasoned white sauce of medium thickness.

REDDY KILOWATT SAYS
For what I Pay in Taxes
11,764 CHILDREN
Could go to school for ONE YEAR

How much of the money I pay for taxes reaches the public schools I do not know. But if every cent that I pay for taxes went to schools it would be enough to pay the operating expenses for a school that would accommodate 11,764 children. Or to put it another way it would pay the school bills for a city of nearly 25,000 population. Now, all of the money I pay in taxes comes from the electric service bills you pay to me—and I pay 14 different taxes to federal, state, county, and city governments. Out of every dollar you pay to me for electric service, I pay 13 cents in taxes. Or to put it another way, every cent you pay me for one and one-half month's electric service each year is used to pay taxes. Yet in spite of this, the cost of electric service is the smallest item in the average family's annual budget—less than two per cent of the total. So use it freely . . . because ELECTRICITY IS CHEAP.

Maryland and Maine Voters Marching to Polls Today

TYDINGS AIDS CLAIM VICTORY IN HOT FIGHT

Democrats to Attempt to Get Congressional Seats in Maine Balloting.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The capital's political interest was divided today between the red-hot Maryland primary, featuring a test of President Roosevelt's powers of persuasion, and the Maine general election, where the governorship and three seats in congress are at stake.

Maryland voters go to the polls to nominate candidates for governor, senator and lesser state offices. But the big show in Maryland is the New Deal's effort to "purge" Senator Millard E. Tydings and nominate in his stead Rep. David J. (Davey) Lewis, for whom President Roosevelt has gone down the line as he has for few other candidates in this off-year. A week ago, Mr. Roosevelt campaigned the state for Lewis as a fighting "liberal." In so doing, Mr. Roosevelt put his own prestige on the bloc.

See Tydings Victory.

The betting odds, the newspaper polls, and all the surface indications point to a Tydings victory in Maryland today, although many observers look for a close race, and some believe that Lewis may pull through.

It has been a bitter, name-calling campaign and it has split the Democratic party in Maryland wide open—so much so, in fact, that the disheartened Republicans feel they may have a chance in November after all. Six months ago the most rabid Republican had no such feeling.

Up in Maine today, the Democrats have nothing to lose and something to gain. Anything the Democrats pick up there will be so much profit for Maine has a Republican governor, and her three incumbent congressmen are Republicans.

President Roosevelt has taken no part in the Maine campaign. But Jim Farley, in whose breast hope springs eternal for capturing Maine and Vermon (the only two states he lost in '36) thought it worth while to make a few speeches in the state. He was the only Democrat of national prominence who did.

Democratic hopes in Maine center chiefly in the second district where Rep. Clyde H. Smith, Republican, is opposed by F. Harold Dubord, the Democratic national committeeman, and a staunch New Dealer.

They also hope that Ex-Gov. Louis J. Brann, Democrat, may eke out a victory over Gov. Lewis O. Barrows, the Republican incumbent, who boasts that he has balanced the Maine budget.

POLITICS AT A GLANCE

Wednesday.

Georgia nominates candidates for senator, governor and house. Delaware Republicans select house candidate in convention.

Thursday.

Connecticut Republicans nominate ticket in convention.

Roosevelt Eased As Jimmy Rallies After Operation

ROCHESTER, Minn. — (AP) — President Roosevelt was cheered today by the apparent success of a serious stomach operation on his eldest son, James.

The chief executive was with his son yesterday as he rallied from the effects of the anesthesia.

"How do you feel?" the president asked James, who is a patient at the Mayo clinic.

"Rocky, rocky," came the reply.

Mr. Roosevelt, who sped to Rochester by special train from the summer White House at Hyde Park, N. Y., was in St. Mary's hospital here yesterday while James had a large gastric ulcer removed in an operation which required an hour and 45 minutes.

Stephen Early, the president's press secretary, said physicians reported James' condition "entirely satisfactory."

Early reported that Mr. Roosevelt, Mrs. Roosevelt and James' wife, Betsy, "were greatly relieved when they found James' ulcer was a benign rather than a malignant one.

Malignant ulcers are those which involve cancer. Benign ulcers do not.

The first get-together in Mansfield of the Theta Chi fraternity the other night at the Paul Endriss home revealed some interesting facts. Although only a small group, it represents the state universities of Ohio, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Oregon. Four of them, Endriss, F. E. Ross, R. M Beatty and R. O. Richards, work at Westinghouse, and seven of them, Endriss, Ross, Richards, L. P. Jisa, D. C. Richardson, Kenneth Shaffer and J. J. Kindel, all live within two blocks of each other. None of them knew the others who attended the same schools until they met in Mansfield. The ninth member is C. F. Creedman.

A picture of two exponents of "swing" appearing in Sunday's issue of the Pittsburgh Press held more than ordinary interest for Mansfielders. The photo showed Jane Wilson, Mansfield girl, who is a singer with Fred Waring's orchestra, posing with Charley Yates of Atlanta, Ga., who confines his "swing" to the fairways. A visitor in Pittsburgh, Miss Wilson was on hand to watch the British amateur champion prepare for the U. S. amateur golf tourney which got under way there today. They met last winter.

There are more prize specimen in the nearby Clear Fork river than most fishermen in this vicinity suspect. Samuel Moore of Mifflin proved it the other day. He pulled up his line from the river with a husky five-pound smallmouth bass on the end, and this is a good catch from any water. fishermen will admit. It took Moore about eight minutes to defeat the bass.

Probably the most colorful character at the recent national rifle and pistol matches at Camp Perry was Hugh J. Fokner, the Mansfielder with the flowing hair and beard. Fokner, who is a crack shot, walked from Mansfield to Camp Perry to participate in the matches. The picture, showing him crouched with a rifle in his hands, appeared in newspapers throughout the country today.

WORK STARTED ON WOODLAND STORAGE TANK

Final Step in $75,000 Water Improvement Program Gets Under Way at Reservoir.

The final step in the $75,000 Woodland water improvement project got under way today when work was started on the construction of a 150,000 gallon elevated storage tank at the Woodland reservoir, Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist announced.

At the same time Nist said the Purdy Construction company, awarded the contract two weeks ago for booster pumps at the reservoir, also started installation today.

A crew employed by the Chicago Bridge and Iron works of Chicago, which received the contract for the construction of the tank tower on its low bid of $14,790, was at work at the south end of the reservoir laying the foundation and footers for the tower.

When completed, the concrete will "set" for 30 days before actual construction of the tank is begun, Nist said. The tower will rise to a height of 102 feet and will be painted with aluminum paint.

It is expected that both the installation of the pumps and construction of the tank will be completed by Dec. 1.

PLAN 'WHITE COLLAR' JOBS

Acting to set up a "white collar" project that would provide for additional employment for WPA in Mansfield, city officials today had filed a real inventory property project with WPA headquarters in Columbus involving the expenditure of $30,000.

The program as outlined by City-WPA Engineer Glenn Weller would provide work for 90 persons for a period of five months.

He explained that of the total expenditure, the city and county, the sponsors, would be required to finance only $1,752 of the cost, while the federal government will furnish $28,198.

City council and the county commissioners already have appropriated $250 each to meet a part of the cost while the Chamber of Commerce, also a joint sponsor, will furnish supplies and equipment which will be deducted from the total. The balance of the sponsors share will be defrayed from the sale of the completed publication.

The program calls for an inventory of all real property and a survey of all land in Richland county to determine the existing housing conditions and land utilization.

Three members of the board are here for the session. They are Chairman J. W. Jewell, Delaware; Craig N. McBride, Hillsboro, and Bishop Reverdy C. Ransom, Wilberforce. Frank T. Sotak, Cleveland, was absent.

ICKES RIPS AT "RED HUNTERS" IN SPEECH AT PERRY MEMORIAL

(By International News Service)

SANDUSKY — The three-day Perry memorial celebration was ended today, topped off by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes' blast at "'Red Hunters."

"The drawing of this odorous red herring across the trail," Ickes asserted, "is encouraged by those who, having fastened themselves as parasites upon our social and economic system, have grown obese from the special privilege upon which they have been permitted to gorge themselves."

The secretary delivered his speech at the foot of the Perry monument at Put-In-Bay. He accepted the shaft as a part of the national park system administered by the department of the interior.

"'Red' Hunters," Ickes declared, believe that "every man or woman who would remedy an existing abuse, or who would do away with special privilege, or who would insist upon the right of every citizen to an equal opportunity under the law, or who would bring about improvements in our economic system so that it no longer could be said that 60 per cent of the citizens of America are living at or below the margin of a decent existence, is a 'Red' or a communist who is dangerous to the welfare of America."

The celebration, in which all southern shore Lake Erie cities took part, was in commemoration of Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry's victory at Put-in-Bay, 125 years ago, and the peace between the United States and Canada since then.

T. B. INCREASES

3 New Cases Boosts County's Total for Year to 78.

The total number of new cases of tuberculosis discovered in Richland county this year was boosted to 78 today as three more were reported at the diagnostic clinic held last Friday at General hospital under the direction of Dr. T. L. Bliss, of Akron.

Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner said that of the 15 suspects examined at the clinic, three showed a positive test while 12 proved negative.

Of the new cases discovered, two were in the city and one was in the county. Eleven of the suspects examined were from the city, two from Shelby and two from other parts of the county.

Three of the patients, one a new case and the other two re-checks were recommended to the county commissioners to be sent to a sanitorium, Dr. Rehder said.

Three delegates, including Hardy, Earl A. McFarland, state central committeeman from the 17th district, and John Hess, county central committee chairman, will represent the county.

Others in the county delegation will be party candidates and leaders.

Principal speakers at the convention, which will be in session Wednesday and Thursday, will be Glenn Frank, national G. O. P. program chairman; John W. Bricker, candidate for governor, and Robert A. Taft, the party's candidate for U. S. senator.

Hanson Calls For Inoculation Of All Toledo Dogs

The city of Toledo where Dr. M. C. Hanson, former Mansfield and Richland county health commissioner holds forth as city health director has really "gone to the dogs" in a big way.

Dr. Hanson recently ordered all dogs rounded up for compulsory inoculation for rabies.

Dr. Hanson's mandate followed reports that several persons had been bitten. The Toledo health department has hired several trucks and is picking up all dogs not displaying brass tags certifying immunization.

The dogs, licensed or unlicensed, are sent to a newly improvised pound if they are not wearing a tag.

BELIEVE THEY ACCIDENTALLY CAUSED BLAZE

Sheriff Says Robbers Dropped Match or Cigaret; Leave 2 Sacks of Chickens.

Sheriff E. P. Long and his deputies today were looking for chicken thieves who are believed to have accidentally set fire to a large dairy barn near Shelby, Saturday night and then fled, leaving two sacks of chickens near the barn.

The 40 by 80 foot barn, owned by M. H. Harrah, 83 Rowland avenue, Mansfield, burned to the ground. Harrah estimated his loss at $8,000, part of which was covered by insurance.

Deputy Sheriff Glenn C. Humphrey said the thieves apparently had gone into the barn to look for additional sacks of chickens and had dropped a cigaret or a match, which started a blaze in the chaff on the floor.

Discover Fire, Flee.

Humphrey expressed the belief that the thieves discovered the fire while they loaded chickens into sacks near the barn and fled before anyone else had been attracted by the flames.

Alva Foreman who lives on the farm, was in Shelby attending the street fair when the fire was discovered by Done Cline, a neighbor. Cline called the Shelby fire department, but firemen were unable to head off the flames which swept through 80 tons of hay in the building.

Efforts of the fire department, however, saved the house and other small outbuildings near the barn. A large silo adjoining the barn, which had recently been filled with ensilage, was destroyed.

Foreman said the house on the farm was destroyed by fire about four years ago.

Three calves, 60 chickens, 900 bushels of oats, a quantity of seed wheat, electric milkers, a tractor and other implements were destroyed.

Hundreds of persons were attracted to the scene of the spectacular blaze which spread a red glow over the sky that could be seen for miles. The fire burned for several hours.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Only Technicality Saves U. S. From Obligation to Help Save Czechoslovaks

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—It is easy to sound off about Great Britain's sacred obligation to go to war again, if necessary, to save Czechoslovakia from the foul invader. A case can be made out for that.

But war happens to be a deeply personal matter to every individual who must do the actual fighting, and those individuals, in the main, are boys and young men, much like Americans of the same age. Those who would be called on to do the fighting include Canadian boys and young men who are no more intimately acquainted or personally concerned with a border fight in the middle part of Europe than Americans.

The Canadian border, that unarmed imaginary line which is the only international boundary of which they have any first-hand knowledge, is not stout enough to quarantine the duty to fight and be lacerated or killed. If a Canadian or an English boy has a personal duty to fight for democracy in Czechoslovakia, a land he never saw, it is only a fine technicality which relieves an American of the same duty.

Certainly, Americans admit no such obligations, but, nevertheless, there are Americans who hold Great Britain up to scorn because human beings in high office hesitate to commit individual men and boys to this war.

Granted that Germany, if Hitler gets away with it in Czechoslovakia, will push on, demanding, seizing more and more in a drive to the east, and that he would eventually embarrass or endanger the British empire, the fact still remains that when the decision is made hundreds of thousands of individual human beings, most of them young men, will have to give up their studies, their work, their homes and the decencies of life to go to a foreign land and fight. The generals, and we in the United States, will think of the war in terms of battles and armies, but it will be a war of boys and men, nevertheless.

The individual of the German side is less distinct in the picture. It is not easy to think of him as a decent, tolerant, individual youth, because today, as before, he represents arrogant, horrible cruelty. He marches in vast parades before Hitler, goose-stepping as he passes the reviewing stand, and he appears only collectively as a menace to the peace of the world and the security of pleasant individuals who wish he wouldn't bring on this new blood-letting.

To a schoolboy or young man in England, Wales or Scotland, Czechoslovakia is no more intimate than the same land, its language, its cities, its people and local problems are to Americans of the same age. It is a foreign country to them, and the rights and wrongs of the dispute are no more pressing as a personal matter than they are to Americans.

To Americans it is not a pressing, personal matter, calling for individual action and the disruption of the whole life of their country, and very likely the destruction of the American form of government in a post-war political upheaval.

If one more war could reasonably be expected to settle matters for all time, the prospects of the sacrifice would be less dreadful to the individual who would have to do the fighting. But there is no reason to think that one more war would be anything but a curtain-raiser for still another. They have been fighting one another in big and little gangs of nations, with only breathtaking spells between, for hundreds of years.

One time the sacred cause finds Prussia killing Bavarians and Austrians. Another time they are blood brothers united against their late brother-in-arms under the banners of Franz Josef. The Balkan people have fertilized their fields with the blood and bones of their enemies across the hill or river one year and fought shoulder to shoulder with them as comrades the next.

Like the gangs of Chicago, nations change allegiance, double-cross one another, conspire and break out in wars endlessly, and the victor hardly has time to sit down to wash the blood off his guns before he finds himself ganged by a new coalition, including certain of his late pals.

The British have done their share of all this, God knows, but wasn't this to be a new day in the world? It takes gall to sit here, at this distance, legally immunized from the sacred obligation, and sneer at young British, Canadian and Australian boys and men as schemers giving away the liberties of a fictitious country which the United States helped to promote.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Merle Oberon may be a glammer gal to you, but to me---and to Merle—she's just a lady behind the eight-ball.

She peeped cautiously around that spheroid today to tell me about it. She made a pretty picture doing it, too, but here was a movie queen to whom appearances were as nothing. For the moment at least. She was concerned.

"It's taxes," she said, explaining that worried look.

"I don't know what I'm going to do," she added.

Well, I've heard movie stars on taxes before, and—

"But my case," said Merle, "is different. Really it is—listen..."

A year ago Merle Oberon, whose change in personality from an "exotic siren" to a wholesome screen lass made Sam Goldwyn hanker after her services, signed a contract. She thought she was getting places.

Eight months straight she works for Goldwyn, drawing down a neat $200,000—this is just my guess—for making two pictures. Then she crosses the water to England and works eight months for Alexander Korda. But before she can cross she has to settle up with Uncle Sam. When she lands on the other side John Bull is ready with a due bill.

"I'm afraid," said Merle. "I'm not only working for nothing, but I'm going to be in debt. I hate being in debt. The contract has four more years to go, and it was ridiculous of me to sign it but I've always hated figgers and I hadn't any idea it was going to turn out this way. Oh, Mr. Goldwyn and Mr. Korda are most sympathetic, and they're trying to work out something, but I don't see how it can be done. After all, I'm getting money working in America and this government isn't going to give up its share. And I'm a British subject so the English government isn't going to give up any."

Merle is right when she says she doesn't know about "figgers." It had just dawned on her, all this tax business, and she'd figured that the U. S. A. wanted about 70 per cent and England another 70 per cent of her American earnings —just 140 per cent all told—but she'd checked with her tax agent and found it wasn't so bad as that. It's about 55 per cent in American taxes and 60 per cent in British. And with deductions — Merle hadn't suspected those either—it may not be that bad.

"But so many people think picture people are rolling in wealth," she said, "it's embarrassing. I get hundreds of appeals for money and I can't do anything about them, except for certain set charities. And I'm living very simply—as simply as a movie person can. I don't entertain—at least as much as an actress is expected to. Very occasionally I give a small dinner party of twelve, but that's all. I don't spend much for clothes, but of course if a picture person has no wardrobe she's considered eccentric.

"When I work in England, the British government takes a large share of that salary. On the balance I have to live the year around and keep my house, but I don't have anything left over to save. That's what worries me—because I can't complain of being uncomfortable now--but what am I going to do about old age?"

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Tygers Tackle Akron

Madison Also Pries Off Lid Along With Other Mid-State League Rivals.

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

FOOTBALL steps back into the headlines in Mansfield and vicinity this week-end.

Virtually all of the schoolboy gridsters in this section will pry off the lid Friday and Saturday, and not all will inaugurate their campaigns with tune-up games.

Included among the schools engaging stern opposition in their debut are the Mansfield High school Tygers, who open with Akron West at Stadium field Saturday.

If the Akron Cowboys have ever won a game from Mansfield on the gridiron, the records do not reveal it, but the rubber city champions usually provide stiff competition.

Few Mansfield followers have forgotten the inaugural last year which the Tygers annexed by a margin too small for comfort. West might have won the game had Joe Majoy not tackled a pass receiver on the two-yard line so viciously that he dropped the ball late in the battle.

Forced to throw a team that lacks game experience into the fray Saturday, Coach Russ Murphy has reason to be pessimistic. However, West has also lost its big guns of last season, and it is not likely to hold any advantage over the Tyger as far as experience is concerned.

About 500 fans saw the Tygers strut their wares in a practice game with a team of ex-high school stars recruited by Vern Heiser, and the Men of Murphy gave the spectators a thrilling exhibition of offensive football.

The Tygers won the game, 27 to 6, with Dick McMullen, Rich Nagle, Red LeMunyon and Ike Smith doing themselves proud on the offense. Defensive weakness were evident, and it is this department of play which will probably receive the most attention from Murphy this week.

Open Under Lights.

Madison's Rams and their Mid-State league rivals will also get off the mark this week-end.

Coach Al Fendrick's men, defending champions, step out in a night game Friday against Sunbury, and the Central Ohio club should give the Rams some trouble.

Bellville, which stacks up as one of Madison's chief rivals this year, is host to Centerburg Friday afternoon, while Mt. Gilead and Lounsville engage N. C. O. conference clubs. The Indians go to Galion and the Red Buds invade Ashland.

Shelby Marion, Bucyrus and Mt Vernon also romp this week. The Whippets open at Norwalk Friday, Mt Vernon entertains Dayton Kiser, Bucyrus is host to Willard and Marion tackles Upper Sandusky.

Butler, no longer a member of the Mid-State league, is tentatively scheduled to open Friday against the Mansfield high reserves, while Crestline meets St Mary's at Sandusky. The latter game is billed for Saturday.

Rams Humbled By Green Bay

(By United Press)

Professional football looked forward to its most profitable season today following curtain raising games in five National league cities before nearly 90,000 fans.

A crowd of 29,700 saw the Chicago Bears beat the Chicago Cardinals 16-13 on Jack Manders last period field goal from the 23-yard line. Largest crowd was at Philadelphia, where 25,000 saw the champion Washington Redskins score a 26-21 decision over the Eagles.

Wash Wear's Wops looking more like an all-American than ever this year, since he left Colorado College, the Pittsburgh Pirates lost to second straight game 27-7 to the New York Giants.

Green Bay scored 27-17 over Cleveland as Hal Packer's Herbers hit Don Hutson passing combination for two touchdowns at Cleveland. Hinkle booted two field goals.

One hundred and seven golfers set off at Oakmont Pa., today in the second round of the 42nd National Amateur golf championship.

Old Wet Army retained the U. S. open polo title with a 16-7 victory over Greentree.

A new attendance record is likely to be set at Forest Hills as Don Budge continues to blast his way through opposition in defense of his national singles tennis crown.

Ray Ales with a 71 broke the Lost Spring golf course record, carrying a 54 hole total of 220.

ONCE COACHED STATE

Coach Edward Jones who directed Ohio State's football fortunes from 1922 to 1928 is now in charge of football at Ohio State in 1938.

He's Through

Frisch.

Shotton, Wilson and Grimes Among Prospects Rumored for Frisch's Job.

ST LOUIS (AP) Frankie Frisch, the Fordham flash, and the gas house gang parted company today on an unbeat—Pitcher Paul Dean's potential comeback.

Frisch was paid off for the season yesterday after the younger brother of Dizzy Dean had subdued the National league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates, 6 to 4.

Successor Doubtful.

Among prospects rumored to succeed the veteran field boss were Burt Shotton, manager of the Columbus Red Birds of the American association, and National league managers Jimmy Wilson of the Philadelphia Phillies and Burleigh Grimes of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Deposed Charley Grimm of the Chicago Cubs, Infielder Leo (Lippy) Durocher of the Dodgers and Gordon (Mickey) Cochrane, late of the Detroit Tigers, also were possibilities.

Shotton was described as "Branch Rickey's type of manager" Columbus, a Cardinal farm, finished next to last this year.

Grimes mentioned in the past as a prospective Cardinal manager, has been reported quaky with the seventh-place Flatbushers. Wilson's last-place Phillies leave him in the shadow of the boot, also.

Grimm has been talking baseball for a Chicago radio station but was reported open to suggestion.

Mike Gonzales Cuban-born Cardinal coach, will replace the 41-year-old Frisch the remainder of the season but President Sam Breadon indicated Gonzales would not continue into next year.

Frisch Not Blamed.

If the front office has a new pilot spotted it gave no indication. Breadon's statement said simply, "I believe a change in managers is necessary for 1939," adding he did not blame Frisch for the Cards' second-division place.

Frisch, aside from saying he gave his best had no comment on his release. He said he would remain here several days before leaving for his home in New Rochelle, N. Y.

Electrics Coast To 12-4 Victory

Climbing on Joe Wentz for four runs in the third and three in the fourth, the Dominion Electrics coasted to a 12 to 4 victory over the Musille Cigars at North park Sunday. Max Fisher, who succeeded Wentz, allowed three hits in the last four innings.

Dinger turned in a magnificent mound performance for the Electrics and did not allow a hit until the seventh. He held The Cigars scoreless until the eighth. Stein with a triple, double and single and Dinger with three singles led the Electrics.

Thelma Linster Ends Lillian Marks' Reign

Joins Husband as Possum Run Champion by Winning Women's Crown by 6 and 5 Margin.

NINETEEN THIRTY-EIGHT will be written in the Possum Run club record as a Linster year.

A week ago Sunday, Pete Linster won a decision over par and Al Kushin to annex the men's club championship at the Washington township layout.

Sunday Pete's wife, Thelma, duplicated his feat by capturing the women's title by defeating Lillian Marks, a champion many times.

Snap's Lillian's String.

Mrs. Linster also gave par a battle as she ended the reign of Miss Marks as queen of the Possum Run tournaments. Prior to her defeat, Lillian had won the club crown five or six years in a row.

The only section of the match that troubled the hard-hitting Thelma was the first nine when she took a 42. She beat the woman's par by one stroke on the inside nine of the morning round, and tied course figures on the outside nine of the afternoon play.

The match ended on the 13th hole to give Thelma a 6 and 5 victory in the finals.

Thelma shot 42-38—80, three above women's par, on the first 18, while the defending champion took 42-42—84. The new queen blasted out a 38 on the first nine of the afternoon to Lillian's 40.

Thelma trailed only once in the match. She held a two-hole advantage at one stage in the first nine, but Lillian squared the match by taking Nos. 8 and 9.

Lillian gained the advantage on dog-leg No. 12 with a six, but she never seriously endangered her foe's lead thereafter. Thelma grabbed the next five holes with a pair of threes and three fours to go four-up. This was her lead at the end of the morning round.

Lengthens Advantage.

The new champion lengthened her lead to six holes at the start of the afternoon round, and this was the margin of her advantage at the last turn.

They halved No. 10, Lillian took the next hole with a par three. Thelma again extended her lead with a five on No. 12 and halved No. 13 with a four to end the match. Their cards:

Bob, Ken Not Through Yet

They're Whole Show as Tribe Splits With Browns.

CLEVELAND—(UP)—The late-season comebacks of two youngsters—Pitcher Bob Feller and Third Baseman Ken Keltner—today spurred thoughts of Cleveland Indian baseball followers into next year.

After a disastrous mid-season slump during which some critics believed he was "through" as a major league hurler, Feller quietly changed his mound delivery, easing up on his speed ball, and has won three straight games. The Iowa farm youth set back the St. Louis Browns, 6 to 2, for his 15th victory of the year in the first game of a double header Sunday.

The lowly Browns turned around and nosed out the Tribe, 4 to 3 in the second game despite fine hurling by Mel Harder for Cleveland.

Keltner, who like Feller "cracked up" in June and July, emerged from a recent hitting slump to blast out seven consecutive hits, including his 25th and 26th home runs of the season. The freshman infielder had gone hitless in his previous 20 times at bat. He included a double in his collection Sunday.

The Browns obtained eight blows off Harder, seeking his 16th triumph of the year. St Louis scored an unearned run in the first inning when a throw by Outfielder Roy Weatherly bounced off Buster Mills' head and permitted the Brown baserunner to score.

The Indians were idle today. The New York Yankees engage the Tribe at League Park Tuesday and Wednesday.

RAMBLERS GET FOUR HITS, BEAT JUNIOR TEAM, 7 TO 5

Although held to four hits, the Ramblers took advantage of four walks and several misplays to defeat the Johns park Juniors, 7 to 5 in a softball game at Johns park Sunday. The Ramblers tallied five times in the first inning to take a lead it never relinquished. The opposing pitchers featured the attacks. Parr obtained two for the Ramblers and Pittman got three for the losers.

Boyer Stars As Mohicans Trim Freddies

Hits Home Run, Double as Chevies Win, 15-14.

Al Boyer is a Mansfield sandlot baseball prospect who bears watching.

Boyer, only 17, enjoyed a particularly good day Sunday as the Mohican Chevrolets whipped Fredericktown, 15 to 14, in a track meet at Liberty park.

The lean right hander took over the pitching burden in the third after his predecessor had yielded 10 runs, and he held the visitors to four thereafter to gain credit for the triumph.

In addition to pitching airtight ball in all but one inning, Boyer did more than his share on the attack. He pounded out a home run and double to play an important part in the victory.

With the Chevrolets trailing 14 to 9 going into the eighth, Boyer cracked out a home run with two aboard to bring his team within striking distance of the lead for the first time in the game.

Then in the last of the ninth after Freddy Lewis, who doubled, stole home to tie the score, Boyer cracked out a double to send Fred Buzard across the plate with the winning run.

Lewis, incidentally, led the 15-hit attack for the Mohican team with a double and three singles in six trips to the plate. Chuck Yarman collected three singles. Rogers obtained five of the 10 hits secured by the visitors.

AKRON AWAITS OUTCOME OF INDIAN-BIRD SERIES

SPRINGFIELD—(AP)—Hopes of the Springfield Indians for a whack at Mid-Atlantic league honors and pot of gold were fanned into new flame today. They whipped pennant-winning Portsmouth 8 to 7 last night for their first victory in three semi-final playoff series starts and took a yank on their belts and sat set for tonight.

Akron had no worries about getting into the fight for the championship. The Yankees flayed the crushed Canton Terriers 12 to 8 Saturday night to make it three straight in their three-out-of-five series.

Elks Trim Billiards, Engage Legion Next

Colored Lodgemen Defeat Rex Team, 11 to 10; Dispute Legionnaires' Title Claims.

THE Mansfield Colored Elks today dispute the city semi-pro championship claims of the American Legion club, and expect to do something about it one of these week-ends.

Manager Bus Hawkins' men took the third and deciding game of a three-game series with the Rex Billiards at the Fairground Sunday, the score being 11 to 10.

Wild Ball Game.

It was a wild ball game as the score indicates, and the outcome was not definite until the last out was registered.

The Elks trailed more than half of the ball game. The Billiards grabbed a 2 to 0 lead in the first inning and added three more in the second. The lodgemen did not score until the fourth when they put over four runs to reduce the lead of John Stoner's men to one tally.

The Cuemen lengthened their advantage in their half of the inning with three more runs, but the Elks again reduced the lead to a run in the fifth and took the lead in the sixth with two more markers.

The Elks added their final runs in the eighth, but their lead was threatened in the last of the ninth when the Billiards put two tallies over the platter.

Pitchers Get Workout.

Both teams used two pitchers, with Walker doing the best work for the winners. Smith finished the game for the Cuemen after Moore faltered in the middle innings.

The Billiards outhit the Elks, 16 to 9, with B. Skulski, Nichelvich and Beal leading the Rex attack with three safeties apiece.

Canzols Whip Willard, 7-3, Theaker Stars

Right Hander's Hitting, Pitching Features.

Karl Theaker took care of things very nicely for Ira D. Ling's Canzols over in Willard Sunday.

In addition to turning in a pitching masterpiece, Theaker led his teammates at the plate as the Canzols whipped the B. & O. railroad club, 7 to 3.

Theaker yielded only five hits as he struck out 11 to turn back every Willard challenge. His teammates played errorless ball.

At the plate, Theaker garnered three of the nine hits obtained by the Canzols, scored three himself and knocked home several more with a double and a pair of singles.

The Canzols never trailed after running three scores over the plate in the first inning. The hosts never came within two runs of the Canzols' lead at anytime.

Ex-Indian Star Visits City in Talent Search.

Clint Brown, former Cleveland Indian pitching star, was a week-end guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Voegele, 541 Park avenue west, and much of his time Sunday was spent watching sandlot games in this vicinity.

Brown is now a member of the Chicago White Sox, but he has not appeared in the box for several months due to an arm injury which necessitated an operation. The right hander has been scouting for talent during his layoff.

South Boulevards Resident Says Sewage Damages Property.

Contending that sewage from a nearby residence damages his property in South Boulevards addition, S. F. Saltzgaber today had filed a suit in common pleas court against Howard Herr.

Saltzgaber asks $500 damages and a restraining order to enjoin the defendant from disposing of refuse on his property. In his petition, Saltzgaber asserts that Herr dug a ditch which carries the sewage onto Saltzgaber's lots, and as a result he has been unable to sell them.

BUSINESS SERVICES FOR YOU

Weekly News and Pictures of Mansfield Business

Provident Makes Loans on Clients' Own Security

Personal loans on their clients' own security are made by the Mansfield Provident company, 18 West Third street, with monthly payments arranged in accordance with the income of the borrower.

A Mansfield Provident feature is the safeguarding of the patrons' interest through the company's advisory service which is available to everyone.

Operating on a sound and conservative policy, the firm makes loans for the purchase or payment of automobiles, diamonds, furniture, farm equipment, or other chattels, Manager M. L. Anderson says.

One of the strongest institutions of its kind in this section, Mansfield Provident was founded for the purpose of making loans to worthy people who found themselves temporarily short of money.

Manager Anderson points out that as open account and installment credit is extended, the need for supplementary funds to tide over periods of irregular income has been constantly increasing.

"Thus the value of having a place to borrow when it becomes necessary is important, and we meet this need with a loan service that has been extended over a period of many years," he adds.

Predicts Bright Future for U. S.

A hopeful outlook for American progress is seen by Edward G. Budd, one of industry's pioneers in steel development and streamlining.

Pointing to the development of the past in the fields of electricity, steel, aviation, and transportation, Budd described them as "only steps" to still more vast developments. Budd was one of the first to foresee the possibilities of all-steel bodies for automobiles and later turned to stainless steel streamlining of railroad trains.

Speaking as an expert on the subject of railroads, Mr. Budd criticized "hampering" regulation.

MORE EFFICIENCY

Efficiency of the newly developed Diesel locomotives is 32 to 38 per cent, compared to 6 to 8 per cent of the ordinary steam locomotive.

Automobile models begin in the form of artists' sketches of proposed new cars and are then reproduced in clay models.

New Pure Oil Dealer and His Station

Shown above is the Pure Oil company's station at Fourth street and Rowland avenue while in the inset at the upper left is Tom Butts who was recently named lessee-dealer.

* * * * *

TOM BUTTS APPOINTED DEALER AT PURE OIL ROWLAND STATION

Appointment of Tom Butts as lessee-dealer of the Pure Oil company's station at Fourth street and Rowland avenue has been announced by the company. Mr. Butts returns to this locality after an absence of several months.

A feature of the service at Mr. Butts' station which is available throughout the year for all customers is a free safety inspection of cars. Pure Oil's Bumper-to-Bumper also is available. Combined, these two services assure the motorist that his car has been checked from bumper-to-bumper from a safety standpoint. Many new patrons have taken advantage of these services.

In addition Mr. Butts handles Solvenized Pure Ethyl and Pure Pep gasolines; Tiolenc, the 100 per cent Pennsylvania motor oil; specialized Pure Oil Check chart lubrication, Yale tires, Pure Oil batteries and a complete line of Pure accessories.

A special get-acquainted is being made at this station throughout the month of September. The regular value of this service—Pure's famous Mileage Maker Service — is approximately $1.25 throughout the year but during September it is free.

Details of this service, which Mr. Butts says adds 20 per cent to the mileage of tires, are available by calling at the station.

That Pure Oil gasolines are steadily gaining in popularity with motorists is shown in tax figures which reveal that 105,000,000 gallons were sold throughout the state of Ohio in 1937.

Barbarossa Beer Available Again

After an absence of 20 years, Barbarossa beer is again available in Mansfield. Brewed according to an ancient lager formula, with the finest of ingredients, Barbarossa is leisurely aged.

Long before prohibition it was known as the true old lager perfected in America. Today Barbarossa is made with the same painstaking care and blends the best characteristics of Bavarian and Bohemian beer, the pale, brilliant coror for which Pilsner is famous and the mellow flavor of Munich-type beer.

Barbarossa beer is available here in bottles.

ASBESTOS SHROUDS

Asbestos, developed by modern industry into a product with many uses, was formed by the Romans into shrouds and used to preserve the ashes of the dead from loss on the funeral pyre.

COAL TO OIL

Chemical engineers have devised a method for converting coal into crude oil by reduction of the finely divided coal by hydrogen at raised temperatures and pressures.

SPEEDIER PLANES

The top speed of the 1929 airplane was only about 130 miles per hour compared with the 1938 average speed of 150 miles per hour.

PAM—Why? By A. W. Brewerton

PAM IS BURNING WITH WONDER AND CURIOSITY OVER THE IDENTITY OF HER UNKNOWN "ADMIRER"! WHAT GIRL WOULDN'T BE?
I CAN'T UNDERSTAND WHY HE SHOULD WANT TO BE UNKNOWN—HOW CAN HE EXPECT ANY THANKS OR APPRECIATION?
9-12
CRAZY WAY TO DO! BUT THE GIFTS WERE LOVELY!— WONDER IF THAT FLORIST REALLY KNEW WHO SENT THE FLOWERS—THEY CLAIMED NOT!—I'LL TRY THAT OTHER FLORIST TONIGHT—AND THE CANDY SHOP!
CLARE SAYS MAYBE IT'S FROM SOME ONE EXTREMELY PLAIN-LOOKING, HOMELY, OR CRIPPLED. OH!—I HOPE NOT—MOST LIKELY SOME FOOLISH BOY!—HOPE HE CAN AFFORD IT!
WONDER IF HE EXPECTS ME TO GUESS WHO IT IS—OR TRAIL HIM DOWN?

Wall Street Sentiment Again Dominated by Fear Over German-Czech Crisis.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—The stock market steadied today, although several sections were hesitant and irregular through forenoon dealings.

Wall street sentiment continued dominated by world nervousness over the critical German-Czech developments, and traders were awaiting Hitler's speech this afternoon. Many felt this would bring the Central European crisis to a head.

In a preliminary talk this morning, Hitler restricted his remarks to the usual familiar generalities. Lack of "warlike" qualities in this speech encouraged a short-lived rally paced by motors and steels, but with trading proceeding at a slow pace the advance soon petered out.

A few stocks showed changes of more than a point, but the great majority of issues held within small fractions of previous closing levels. The list was mixed and quiet at the opening, and continued hesitant until the bulge in steels and motors was touched off in the second hour.

Mail orders, most chemicals and merchandising shares joined steels and motors on the upside. Coppers, utilities, oils and amusements were backward.

Calls Police to Arrest Her and Officers Oblige

An excited voice came over the telephone at police headquarters in the city building—"I want to see a plainclothesman right away."

Police, always ready to help a lady in distress, were dispatched to a South Park street drink emporium.

There they found a neatly dressed woman who said she was Jean Parker, Cincinnati, bemoaning her fate over a glass of whisky. She wanted to be arrested and taken to jail, she said.

The officers tried to persuade her to go to her hotel room but she insisted that she was going to jail "or throw a rock through a plate glass window." So the officers put her in the cruiser and to jail she went.

Arraigned in municipal court Saturday on a charge of intoxication she told the court she "had been foolish" and that she wanted to go home. Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch suspended a $5 fine on the condition that she board the first bus for Cincinnati.

Breathitt, 25, was killed when his plane fell near Glencoe, Ont. The plane apparently struck a tree top, investigators said.

YOUTH FOUND IN CANYON 'TOMB'

Paralyzed By Fall, He Suffers From 8-Day Exposure.

JASPER, Ark. — (INS) — Doctors today fought to save the life of Hartsell McClain, 20, of Atkins, Ark., who lay paralyzed in the open for eight days after falling from a 30-foot cliff.

McClain was in a pitable condition when found in a lonely canyon south of here yesterday by Morland Dodson, a trapper and woodsman.

Unable to protect himself, he had been badly bitten by ants and other insects that had even eaten away most of his clothing.

dained yesterday, was assigned to the Paradise Hill charge.

Other changes were:

Rev. C. H. Lilly from East Palestine to Cambridge; Rev. O. O. Ortt from Lakefork to Chestnut Hill; Rev. E. P. Eberly from Cambridge to Lorain, and Rev. M. L. Hartman from Akron to Montrose.

The North Hill church, which Rev. Hartman headed at Akron, was closed because of financial difficulties. Conference officials said four other United Brethren churches served Akron and that it was considered advisable to discontinue services at the North Hill church because of the dwindling attendance and financial support.

Bishop A. R. Clippinger, Dayton, ordained Rev. Airhart of Canton; Rev. Paul Frees of Louisville, and Rev. Donald V. Hall of Ashtabula. Mrs. Leo Irby of Akron and Mrs. F. G. Reece of Akron were consecrated as deaconesses. Dr. B. S. Arnold, Barberton, conference superintendent assisted Bishop Clippinger.

District Heads Assigned.

District leaders in the church who were assigned yesterday included Rev. G. B. Wetherbee, Ashland district; Rev. Sager Tryon, Akron district; C. W. Balyeat, Cambridge district; P. M. Redd, Canton district; E. F. Wegner, Cleveland district; V. C. Stamets, New Philadelphia district; and G. F. Hartman, Warren district.

The Ministers' Wives association re-elected Mrs. L. S. Frees, of Justus, president. Others chosen were Mrs. F. G. Reece, Akron, vice president; Mrs. I. S. Swezey, Middlebranch, secretary; and Mrs. S. W. Ellis, Newcomerstown, treasurer.

An overflow congregation heard Bishop Clippinger in the final sermon Sunday morning when he urged a "more practical religion."

Asserting that the best religion "is not mass emotion, but the kind that sends us out fired with ambition to make progress," Bishop Clippinger called for more reading of the Bible and less about politics.

"This is a crucial period in the world's history, and we should make our religion a baptism of courage," he said.

The pastor assignments announced at the closing session were:

sales manager, and was made a vice president in 1930.

Williams will make his home in Mansfield.

Company Showed Growth.

During Allen's regime in the Mansfield plant—slightly less than five years—the appliance division of Westinghouse made some of its most rapid strides.

Although he undertook the job when the country was still in the grip of the depression, Westinghouse began to show a slow but steady increase in sales, and last year was one of the best this branch of the company ever experienced.

Refinements were introduced, and new appliances developed and placed on the market.

It was under Allen's supervision that the new million-dollar warehouse and office building on the south side of East Fourth street was constructed and put into use. Five stories in height, four stories are used for storage space, with all of the organization's offices on the fifth floor.

On the occasion of its formal opening, Saturday, Jan. 16, 1937, more than 10,000 persons from Mansfield and vicinity made a tour of the new building and the factory itself, which was thrown open to the general public.

Came Here From New York.

Allen came to Mansfield from New York, assuming his duties here on Jan. 31, 1934, as vice president of the company in charge of the merchandising division.

He had been a vice president of the company since 1926, and was at that time general manager of the Westinghouse Lamp company.

Allen's first connection with Westinghouse was in 1902, when he took charge of the company's testing department in Newark, N. J. There until 1910, he was "loaned" to the International Electrical Protection company as its chief engineer. He returned to Westinghouse in 1911, and entered the supply department in New York, becoming manager of the department in 1915.

Overseas During War.

A native of Canada, he joined the Canadian overseas forces in October of 1917, serving as technical observer to the Canadian Royal Flying corps.

After the war, he returned to New York, and in 1919 became executive assistant to the manager of the company's New York office, being elevated to the position of manager the same year.

In 1925 he was appointed general manager of the lamp division of the company, a post he held until he came to Mansfield, with his election to a vice presidency in the company taking place in 1926.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen reside at 451 Park avenue west. They have one son, A. E. Allen, jr., in New York and a daughter, Caroline.

tions for improvements within 30 days.

The John Simpson building, which was erected in 1891, would be replaced with a new structure under the $1,000,000 building program proposed by the board of education.

Dotson said the inspector, who visited the building Aug. 25, described the third floor as "nothing but an attic."

School officials said they had known for several years that the building was a fire hazard, but it had not been condemned and use of it was continued because there was no other building available.

Enrollment at the school is already 36 above last year, and more pupils are expected to register this week, Dotson said. He added that the additional pupils have caused serious crowding of all class rooms in the building, with many classes numbering more than 40 pupils each.

Supt. Miller said the half-day schedule probably would continue indefinitely, or until space is found for the 325 pupils elsewhere in the city. There was little hope, he said, that space could be provided in other school buildings.

WORLD WAITS HITLER SPEECH

Warlike Atmosphere Prevails as Fuehrer Prepares Vital Address for Today.

admitted that a last-minute change was possible.

Best-informed quarters believe the speech will be climaxed by an onslaught against Czechoslovakia, with notice to the world that the Sudeten issue cannot be left unsettled much longer.

Unless Prague applies the principle of self-determination voluntarily—in other words, permit a plebiscite—Hitler is expected to warn, responsibility for the consequences will rest with Prague.

Nevertheless, it is predicted that Hitler will still leave the door open for negotiations.

Talks To Troops.

Addressing an impressive gathering of 120,000 Nazi party troops and 80,000 cheering spectators, Hitler made this significant statement:

"A new Germany stands before us. We have the good fortune to live in it.

"To other Germans this privilege for the time being is still denied."

"Our hearts go out to them. We hold but one feeling of obligation, which has been expressed billions of times; our belief in Germany."

A mighty roar of "heil to our fuehrer" welled from the 200,000 throats.

Of almost equal importance was the declaration of Victor Lutze, storm troopers' chief of staff, in a reference to the Sudetens:

"We will never leave them in the lurch."

Another ominous sign was the frigid reception accorded Great Britain's 11th hour attempt to curb Hitler diplomatically by warning him that a lightning stroke against Czechoslovakia would drag France and probably Britain into war against the reich.

"The British declaration was received altogether cooly," it was semi-officially stated.

"It contains nothing new; nothing which might be of special importance.

"The fresh incidents which occurred in Czechoslovakia are making a stronger impression."

Sir Nevile Henderson, the British ambassador, having given London's message to responsible German diplomats—although not to Hitler direct—arrived back in Berlin today.

For five hours yesterday Hitler stood in bright sunshine in the heart of Nurnberg and watched storm troopers and elite guards parade by, 20 abreast. At a later ceremony, 50 Sudeten troopers stood before the vast array.

Several foreign writers had luncheon with Hitler in a medieval castle overlooking Nurnberg.

In the face of the rapidly-approaching climax to the European emergency, the fuehrer avoided all mention of political matters, confining his remarks to weather and art.

Although he was at that moment mulling over one of the most important decisions of his career, Hitler showed no symptoms of strain or worry, other than the slight fatigue inevitably accompanying the activities of the party congress.

Czechs Ready to Order Martial Law.

PRAGUE—(AP)—The Czechoslovak government today reached a decision to invoke martial law in sections of the Sudeten German region tonight if serious disorders develop following Reichsfuehrer Hitler's Nurnberg speech.

Martial law will be imposed "only in case of extreme necessity," according to the decision reached by Premier Milan Hodza and his chief ministers.

But in government offices it was said that order would be maintained at all costs.

A meeting of the government's inner council heard a report by Josef Cerny, ministery of the interior, concerning disorders in the Sudeten districts last night, where Nazi fervor reached new heights.

Meanwhile the little republic, fearing a bitter and threatening speech by Hitler, kept her troops in readiness along her border with Germany.

Mounting Nazi enthusiasm in Sudeten territory and demands for a plebiscite were watched with growing concern as Czechoslovakia awaited Hitler's speech.

Switzerland Prepares To Dynamite Railroads.

BERNE, Switzerland — (UP) — Mines at all points on the Swiss frontier were loaded with explosives at noon today on order of the military department, so that in case of emergency, railroads and roads between Germany and France could be blown up.

This was the final stage in the preparation of Switzerland's little army to repel at whatever cost, any effort to use Switzerland as a corridor for foreign troops.

The mines extend all along the frontiers of Switzerland, bordering on Germany France and Italy. They were under heavy guard by frontier troops.

Calls French Cabinet To Special Session.

PARIS —(AP)— Premier-Defense Minister Daladier called the French cabinet to meet in extraordinary session today a few hours before Chancellor Hitler's Nurnberg speech, which France calmly awaited as a signal whether the Czechoslovak crisis would end in peace or war.

The French position was simply:

We are doing all we can to preserve peace: we are ready for war.

CROSSES LAKE IN HOME-MADE SUB

Mechanic Nearly Collapses When Oxygen Gives Out.

CHICAGO—(AP)—It took Barney Connett 10 hours and 50 minutes to cross Lake Michigan in his home-made submarine, shaped like a whale, but disaster almost overtook him.

The 32-year-old mechanic nearly collapsed from lack of oxygen yesterday while covering the 38 miles from Michigan City, Ind., to Chicago.

He was taken aboard a sloop which accompanied him on the hazardus trip. Barney spent 45 minutes recuperating while the big steel sub filled with fresh air. Then, like a sardine in a can, he climbed back, adjusted his four-foot periscope and continued his trip.

ought to know what they're doing. She's best!"

Marilyn, who has been winning beauty prizes in Ohio since the Elks picked her in 1931, immediately began reaping the profits that go with the crown. She started a week's appearance at an Atlantic City amusement pier yesterday and when that's done she'll go on a national tour of her own. And then, maybe, the movies.

Marilyn, who was born in Lima, O., and came here early in life, did a bit of "training" to gain the title, Meseke said. Plenty of sleep, a strict recreation schedule and a rigidly supervised diet were the chief requirements. The father added:

"Marilyn isn't a play girl. She doesn't drink or smoke and goes to bed shortly after her dancing school classes end about 10 p. m. and she doesn't have any boy friends and her mother goes with her whenever she takes trips out of town." Mrs. Meseke is with her daughter now.

TWO 'MISS AMERICAS'

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Atlantic City beauty pageant today had a problem of plural pulchritude, or two "Miss Americas."

Criticising the judges who Saturday gave the nod to Marilyn Meseke, a 20-year-old blond from Marion, O., Earl Carroll, who has had quite a bit to do with selecting beautiful ladies, last night placed a "golden" crown on the brow of Claire James of Los Angeles and pronounced her "the true Miss America."

In his speech of presentation—made in a crowded hotel room—Theatrical Producer Carroll said:

"The judges at Atlantic City were incompetent. I've chosen enough beautiful girls to know what it's all about. Anyone at the contest could tell by the applause that Miss California was the winner.

"So, Miss James, I crown you fairest of the fair and as the most beautiful girl in the Atlantic City pageant."

Carroll said he had nothing to do with any professional career Miss James might follow.

JAIL SUSPECT IN HOTEL FIRE THAT KILLED 8

Illinois Officials Announce Chicagoan Confesses He Sought Revenge.

(By United Press)

CHICAGO—The state fire marshal's office today turned over to the state's attorney's office Frank J. Kolesiak, 26, and an 11-page signed statement asserting that he and a companion deliberately fired a hotel in which eight persons were burned to death last April 6.

The statement said Kolesiak and a friend he named as Emil Guerrieri, 23, pool room porter, set fire to the Hotel Center because of a trivial insult.

'Wanted to Get Even.'

"We wanted to get even with the owner," the statement quoted Kolesiak. "He had kicked us out of the place."

Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan, who questioned Kolesiak, asserted:

"If this story is verified, it is genuine murder and we will seek murder indictments."

State Fire Marshal Sherman V. Coultas said Kolesiak confessed three hours after he was seized Friday in the home of Mrs. Ruth Moran who also was held for questioning.

Men and women in the medium-priced hotel were thrown into a panic when fire broke out in the early morning. Firemen carried 10 persons to safety over ladders and aided others down a fire escape. Those who died either were trapped in their rooms or trampled as the sought to flee from the flaming building.

Firemen had believed the blaze started accidentally.

CHAPTER 39.

Noel hurried back upstairs after she had seen the group around the card table in Fay Garwood's sitting room. It had been a real shock to see the man who twice had followed her home from the Peacock. She had believed she was through with Luigi forever, had hoped that she would never see him again or anything pertaining to the Peacock, now here was his henchman, calmly enjoying a game of bridge in the house where she was employed.

But Noel finally convinced herself that it was purely a coincidence and had nothing whatever to do with her own presence here

She dismissed it from her mind and went to the telephone to call Laurie again. This time she found her at the cafe.

Laurie, Noel was overjoyed to find, did not marry Contepas. "Because of Jimmy," Laurie explained happily. "The minute I saw him I knew I couldn't." Then she added, "Thank you, Noel, for what you did."

They talked a few minutes Just before hanging up the receiver, Laurie told Noel to buy The Press-Scimitar. There was something about Julian on the first page

Noel went out at once and bought a paper from a thin little newsboy who was on the corner in the mornings and again at night.

She found it at once, a picture of Julian, and underneath the following paragraph:

"Doctor Julian Paige, young physician and surgeon, who recently performed a rare operation. Only one other successful operation of its kind is known to medical science. It is predicted that this conscientious young physician will go far in his profession."

Noel read the article with unconcealed happiness. She had heard Julian speak of this particular operation He had said that he was putting his judgment against that of much older men in the profession. It had taken courage to do that, but he had won.

Noel decided that she would call Julian tomorrow and congratulate him. It was quite possible that he had attempted to get her over the telephone and had failed, for Laurie had mentioned the fact that she had called there, had asked that Noel be called to the phone, but that she had waited in vain. Noel thought it rather strange that she should not be permitted to answer telephone calls

The next day passed uneventfully, although Betsy didn't seem as well as she had the day before Noel worried for fear that she might be feverish

So Noel went downstairs again to see Mrs Garwood, who received her with her usual ungraciousness. When Noel told her why she had come, Mrs. Garwood became angry. "I've had the best doctors in Europe," she exclaimed, "and nothing could be done. Now you go back upstairs and stay there where you belong."

There was nothing left for Noel to do but obey. But on the way back, a daring thought came to her. If Julian could see Betsy —if there was some way she could get the child to him—

At 6 she called him at his office She found out that Julian had endeavored to get in touch with her without success. When she had congratulated him on the successful operation, he said, his voice a little wistful: "Am I never to see you again?"

She told him she would be off the following Wednesday and would meet him at the De Luxe. It was agreed they would have dinner there, although Julian reminded her that Wednesday was a long way off "I suppose I'll have to make the best of it," he finished.

"I'm afraid so," Noel said lightly Then she added teasingly, "But you still have Miss Chester—you couldn t be really lonely."

Julian gave a short laugh. "If I were there with you, I don't know whether I'd shake you or kiss you Probably both, one first, then the other."

"Now, really, Doctor Paige —," Noel drawled teasingly.

The afternoon was sunshiny, the outdoors so inviting that once again Noel suggested to Betsy that they go downstairs for a little while. But the same look of fear, or something akin to fear, came into the child's blue eyes. So once again Noel did not press the subject. But she couldn't help wondering why the child should be afraid of going downstairs.

Noel was beginning to feel the long unaccustomed strain of remaining indoors. It seemed ages and ages since the evening she and Julian had said good night and had kissed each other very lightly and decided to be friends, at least There were times when Noel was very lonely, when she suffered an actual nostalgia for the dingy little room on Court street

Somehow the days went by and it was Tuesday. Betsy refused to touch her breakfast this morning And Noel was trying to persuade her to drink a glass of milk about 10 o'clock when Hichens came in and told Noel that Mrs. Garwood wanted to see her. Betsy was at last about to yield to Noel's persuasion, so Noel did not go down at once. After all the child was her first responsibility.

* * *

The next thing Noel knew she heard the sound of French heels outside Betsy's door. Fay Garwood came in, her face white with anger "I sent for you. Why didn't you come?"

"I didn't think there was any hurry," Noel's voice was quiet. She was surprised to see that the woman's arm was again bandaged.

"When I send for you, you are to get there at once, do you—" Mrs. Garwood began angrily.

But the air was suddenly split by a high hysterical voice, "GET OUT OF HERE! GET OUT! You're mean and I hate you. I hate you!"

It was fully half a second before Noel realized that the excited, hysterical voice came from Betsy and that she was glaring at Fay Garwood, her little face distorted with rage.

Mrs. Garwood took the child's thin shoulder with her unbandaged hand and shook her viciously "If I had two good hands, I'd spank you until you couldn't sit down, you little imp!"

It was all Noel could do to keep her composure Betsy was sobbing now, helplessly, bitterly. Noel started over to comfort her

"Leave her alone," Mrs. Garwood commanded sharply "I've told you this child needed discipline. Now you see for yourself. You come downstairs with me"

Noel followed the woman downstairs, making a mental note to hurry back to Betsy at the earliest possible moment.

"First, I want to have you write out another check. My arm, as you see, is still in bad shape," Fay Garwood began

Noel took the checkbook Fay Garwood handed her and wrote out another check, signing Mrs. Garwood's name as she had done before The amount of the check was $3,000

When Noel finished, the woman said: "You can see now that Betsy's trouble is mental. In cases of this kind, the—er—one who is unbalanced always turns against their—er—the one she loves the best That is why—well, when you're a mother yourself you will understand why I am the — unhappiest woman in the world I'm not even allowed to see my own child, because—er—the doctors say it will aggravate her condition"

* * *

Fay Garwood had spoken slowly, as if measuring every word Noel had a queer feeling that her whole speech had been carefully rehearsed It seemed that Mrs Garwood had suddenly assumed the role of a broken-hearted mother But the role didn't seem to fit her any better than Hichens' movie version of a butler fitted him

Nevertheless, in spite of Noel's conviction that the woman was acting she murmured something about being very, very sorry, and at last went back to Betsy.

The child was slumped in a chair, her eyes tear-stained and her face again waxen white She had never looked more exhausted and forlorn Noel lifted her up Then she said gently, "Darling you were very naughty to talk to your mother like that. But you don't do it again, will you? You must promise Noel that you won't"

Betsy sat up in her lap, her tear-stained eyes very bright and feverish. "But she is not my mother," she said

DON'T LET TENSION "GET" YOUR NERVES!

Collie

Rough-coated Collie's ancestry is as old as sheep-herding itself. Name from Anglo-Saxon "col" meaning black. Scotch called them "colley dogs" after the black-faced "colley" sheep they tended. Noted for acute hearing, extraordinary homing sense, devotion to duty.

He's giving his nerves a rest... and so is he

THIS Collie dog has a nervous system that is remarkably similar to yours. Like yours it is delicate, complicated. But here is where a big difference comes in: The dog can spring into flashing action — and then relax. While man's nature makes him unkind to his nerves. All too often, we work too hard, worry too much, are fatigued or sleepless from strain. Nerves cry for rest, but we do not hear. Don't let tension "get" your nerves. Give your nerves a frequent rest—a soothing breathing spell—take time for a Camel. Camels help you to remember that you need a brief bit of leisure, for they are mild and mellow, a supremely enjoyable cigarette, made from costlier tobaccos. Smokers find that "Let up — light up a Camel" puts more joy into living, and that Camel's costlier tobaccos are mild and soothing to their nerves.

There's more joy in living when you "Let up—light up a Camel"

RALPH GULDAHL (right), golf champion, reveals an "inside" story. "I've learned to ease up now and again—to take time for a Camel. It's the little breaks in daily nerve tension that help to keep a fellow on top. Smoking a Camel gives me a feeling of well-being. Here is a cigarette that is soothing to my nerves"

MISS OLLIE TUCKER (left), office manager, says: "I can't afford to get nervous. My method is to let up, and light up a Camel. It's a grand way to smooth out tense nerves. I smoke Camels a lot. They're so mild and flavory. Camels are soothing to my nerves Most of my friends who seem always at ease prefer Camels."

DID YOU KNOW:

That there are 26 different types of American-grown tobacco, by U. S government standards? That Camel buyers study soil conditions, weather, local curing methods? They know where the choice grades are. It is a recognized fact in the tobacco trade that

The more the national political situation is "clarified" by the leaders, the more complicated it gets.

"War has no victor," says Secretary Hull. Sure enough! Remember how the Allies thought they won the World war?

Belief is expressed in some quarters that dictators will be softened by years—with some indication that the process is already starting in their brains.

Register, Transfer, Vote!

REGISTRATIONS and transfers of Mansfield voters evidence lively interest in the special election on the school bond issue, scheduled for a week from tomorrow.

First voters, newcomers to Mansfield, and residents who have not voted at two preceding general elections are required to register. Voters who have moved since previous registration are required to get a transfer into the precinct in which they now live.

Opportunity to register or transfer ends at 4 p. m. Wednesday of this week. Absent voters' ballots will be accepted until Saturday midnight, Sept. 17.

The office of the board of elections, in the court house basement, will be open tomorrow from 8 a. m. until 8 p. m., and on Wednesday from 8 a. m. to 6:30 p. m., for registration or transfer and to issue absent voters' ballots.

At the August 9 election 5,546 votes were cast FOR the school bond issue and 3,576 against it—or slightly more than a 60 per cent majority.

Recognition of the urgent need for public school improvements in Mansfield, coupled with advantages of sharing in federal funds now being distributed for such purposes, should serve to impress every one of the 5,546 voters who favored the issue on August 9 with the importance of again going to the polls a week from tomorrow to vote FOR the bond issue.

Adding to this total the several hundred men and women who favor the bond issue but who failed to register or transfer in advance of the previous election, the required 65 per cent CAN BE ATTAINED—BUT TO DO THIS EVERY FAVORABLE VOTE MUST BE CAST!

If you are not registered or properly transferred DO IT TOMORROW—don't wait until the final hour.

If you are planning to be away from Mansfield next Tuesday cast an absent voter's ballot before the end of this week—the sooner the better.

How More Jobs Are Made.

WHEN J. Lee Barrett, of the Detroit Convention bureau, recently suggested to Detroit business leaders that they trade in their old cars as soon as the 1939 models appear, it might seem that he was selfishly motivated by Detroit's large interest in automobile production.

Analysis will show, however, that this is not the case, for improvement in employment and in general business conditions in one city tends to spread benefits to others and to eventually extend throughout the entire country.

When more people in Mansfield, and other cities, buy products of industry, regardless of where they are manufactured in the United States, people in those other cities are enabled to buy more of the products of Mansfield factories—thus providing more employment here.

While there is no inclination to encourage over-extension of credit, the fact remains that there are hundreds of thousands of people in this country whose incomes have not been materially affected by the recession and who have no good reason to further delay purchase of things they need and for which they are able to pay.

This is the September in which a further upturn in business has been confidently anticipated.

The 1939 quota of new cars is placed at 2,500,000—which means that two and a half million people are expected to buy a new car, plus several million purchasers of used cars—making allowance for junking a couple of million cars of ancient vintage that are no longer safe for use.

"Sales Mean Jobs" is not merely a transient slogan—it is true every day in the year.

Forty Years a Queen.

QUEEN WILHELMINA of The Netherlands has been celebrating the fortieth anniversary of her coronation. Under her guidance her little country has had a steady and satisfactory period. The speech she made at the celebration contains a few sentences which Americans as well as Netherlanders may well take to heart. The forty years, she said, had been glad years. The firmness and tenacity of the Dutch people had enabled them to conquer past difficulties and to hold the respect of the world.

"When working it is necessary not to disguise realities but to see them as they are, to accept whatever they bring and to act with energy with heads erect awaiting times to come."

Translated into the American language this would come to: "You've got to face facts, see things as they are, take what comes and keep going with your head up." In any language, this is good advice.

Jacks Championship.

SO THE children still play jacks! To grown-ups all that sort of thing seems "long ago and far away," especially in an age so sophisticated as this. And they have championship matches, something never dreamed of a generation ago.

In Central park, New York City, a few days ago, they held the finals for girls. There were three from each borough, chosen in elimination tests. Sadie Bulsone aged 14, a Textile high school freshman, won first place and a gold medal and the title of "Jacks." She was so good that for her last half hour she had the tables to herself and "ran up a score of thirty games—fivesies before she dropped a jack."

The second prize went to Clare Duffy, of the same age, who "missed with a drop jack after scoring 29 games—eightsies." Miss Duffy, it is revealed incidentally, prefers "backsies," picking up the ten pieces after the first scramble, then nine, then eight, down to "gamsie."

Most of us will not recognize the terminology. But it's still the same old world for youngsters after all.

Watching Trends

While Preston Grover is on vacation, persons prominent in the official and political life of the nation and in journalism are conducting this column. Today's guest column is written

By STEWART McDONALD
Federal Housing Administrator.

WASHINGTON — Business transacted by the Federal Housing administration during the four years of its life has exceeded $2,500,000,000. About $600,000,000 of this busines has been done since the National Housing act was amended on Feb. 3, 1938.

These figures have a significance for the American public not so much as an avhievement of the past but as an indication of what we can do in the future. We feel in the federal housing administration that we have only begun to realize the potentialities of the National Housing act.

The act was designed by congress to encourage improvement in housing standards and conditions and to create and maintain a sound home-financing system. The FHA insures loans made by private lending institutions to prospective home-owners, enabling the lenders to extend credit with confidence. The FHA lends no money but attempts to establish a system of lending and standards of housing which will encourage others to make loans more freely.

No Room for Rackets.

WE WANT the Federal Housing administration to stand in the public mind as an unbiased, non-political organization of the federal government which aids and protects the individual in buying or building a home. The FHA standards leave no room for jerry-building or mortgage-lending rackets.

The long-term, amortized, single mortgage sponsored by the FHA has definitely stamped out old mortgage evils, such as excessive charges and frequent renewals which throttled the mortgage borrower.

When the National Housing act was amended in February, liberalizing and broadening the terms under which small houses may be financed, we hoped to increase the volume of business which we were handling. Home lending had fallen to a low level at the end of 1937 as a result of the business recession in the latter half of the year. We foresaw a rising trend in the spring of 1938, due to the efforts of congress to make the National Housing act apply to persons of lower income and to families with only small amounts of cash to apply against the purchase of a home.

It has been immensely gratifying to find our own predictions far too conservative. Not only did our business reach a level never before touched but it has maintained that figure uninterruptedly ever since April all the way until the middle of August.

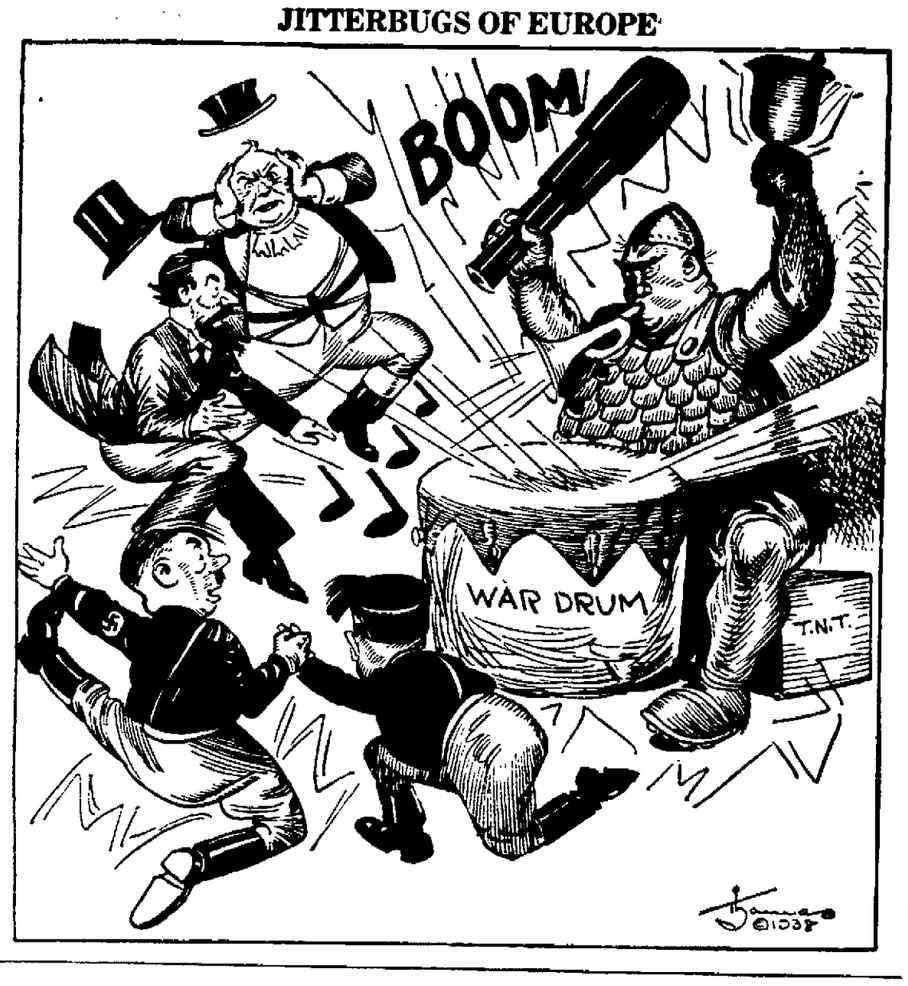
May Be Best Since 1929.

MORTGAGES selected for appraisal by the Federal Housing administration have averaged between $20,000,000 and $24,000,000 in every full week during this period. In the week ended August 13, they amounted to $23,372,000, or less than $700,000 below our largest week. Our figures in July and August have been running more than 100 per cent ahead of 1937, both in the number and amount of mortgages selected for appraisal.

This year should be the most prosperous home-building year since 12. It would not surprise me if the actual amount of insurance of home mortgages exceeds any previous year by at least 50 per cent. This much business transacted by the Federal Housing administration alone indicates the construction of 300,000 or more dwelling units for the year. Such a figure would compare with only 50,000 homes built in 1934 and would provide the surest evidence of the federal government's success in spurring home construction through private credit channels.

JITTERBUGS OF EUROPE



Democrat Factions Hold Interest

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Nobody seems to care a nickel's worth what the Republicans are doing.

Heaven knows that this has been a red-hot, not to say a vitriolic campaign thus far, but only one party has figured in it noticeably. That is to say, only one party label, the Democratic, has been mentioned as of any consequence.

Politically speaking, this year's primaries are tests to determine whether New Deal or anti-New Deal Democrats really ARE Democrats.

The Republican primaries are inconsequential.

In most states and districts the G. O. P. nominees expect to be licked in November by so-called Democrats of one brand or the other. Consequently the Republican primaries have been pretty flat affairs. Rival Republicans scarcely can be counted on to fight very hard for the privilege of being walloped a few weeks hence at the polls.

CAN'T IDENTIFY THEM

It's a funny situation.

I have seen plenty of campaigns in which the Democrats knew in advance that they would be beaten in general, but they always have been sure of winning in a sufficient number of bailiwicks to preserve their party integrity.

Now the Republicans realize that they are in a fair way to be wiped practically off the political map—save, possibly, in Maine and Vermont.

But wiped off by whom? Not by any opposition party that they accurately can identify. A Republican, with a few exceptions, is a Republican. But what's a Democrat? Lord only knows. He may be a New Dealer, who certainly isn't a Republican. He may be an anti-New Deal Democrat, who assuredly isn't a Republican,, but who isn't a Democrat either, if Franklin D. Roosevelt is one.

Either way one puts it the Democratic candidate (whether a "pro" or an "anti" New Dealer) appears to be in a majority over his Republican opponent.

And now, on the strength of California's primary, it appears that a third kind of Democrat is to be reckoned with—a "funny money" Democrat—pooh-poohed by the Republicans and referred to as "Utopian" by President Roosevelt.

This "funny money" complex is liable to spread.

A LOT OF FACTIONALISM

Old-time Democracy is fairly well holding its own.

However, it isn't doing much better than to maintain a balance of power, nor is it likely to do more than that.

The New Dealers hate the old-time Democrats almost worse than the Republicans and the old-time Democrats reciprocate. Still, the New Deal Democrats hate the Democratic "funny-moneyites" as much as the Republicans do. Ditto the old-time Democrats.

The whole thing is so jumbled in the primaries as to mean nothing at all.

For example:

Representative David J. Lewis, Maryland New Deal Democratic senatorial candidate, says he isn't the communists' choice for the nomination. The communistic organization says he is.

The primaries over, the inter-party fight will begin.

But which party is which?

Democrats voting for Republicans! Republicans voting for Democrats! Communists voting for a candidate who declares he isn't a communist! A "funny-money" candidate running on an anti-"funny-money" ticket!

Make some sense out of that.

A Farmer's Diary

The Home Folks.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I HAPPENED into a hilly section, where the barns were not so large and the houses not so well painted as on level, richer soil. Some clover fields hung like checkered garments on the hillsides, others stretched across the crest and disappeared.

Along the winding road which bordered the valley, large springs gushed from the hillside. I listened to the music of these rippling streams, tasted the cooling draught, and felt the moist air.

At the edge of a large bank, where the strongest stream of water flowed, stood a basement house, with a double porch across the front. The first story was built of large sandstones, the upper part of rough-hewn logs, chunked and daubed with plaster. The lawn, a rich turf of blue grass and small clover, was well kept. Along one border, marigolds and tansy, purple boneset, mountain daisies and a kind of heather made a colorful motif on the other edge the spring flowed into a small basin, filled with the tender green of watercress.

A slim woman with a dark sunbonnet, stepped from the corner of the house.

"You have a lovely lawn, and a wonderful spring," I said.

Her face lighted, and she spoke with enthusiasm.

"Yes—we like it. This place was in our family since Monroe was president . . . my great-grandfather moved here after the Indians left. My father was born here, and died in that room yonder . . . and I was born here . . . but lands, my children are all growed up and left. They don't seem to like it, like we do. Pap and me are here alone."

"Why didn't they like it?" I asked.

"No young folks, I guess. The neighbors' kids all went to town and got themselves jobs . . . so ours did too. Pap offered half the crop to John, the youngest, but he wouldn't stay. That was two years ago. We can't do all the work ourselves, no more, so Pap had to let out some o' the fields. It just kills a farm, but what can a body do?"

"I hope one of your boys will get homesick," I told her, and meant it with all my heart.

"'Twould make us mighty happy if he did," she admitted wistfully.

Timely Editorial

Progress and Retrogression.

Public school education in Ohio reveals the strange combination of progress and decadence at the same time. This anomaly was brought to public attention again by E. N. Dietrich, Director of Education, in his speech in Defiance Ohio He pointed out that only 1,200 one-room schools opened in the state this fall, in contrast with 2,500 such rural schools three years ago. School patrons demand and get centralized schools and modern educational facilities.

But Ohio school boards actually waste $700,000 annually for interest on loans because the state school foundation program does not provide edequate funds punctually for the public school needs The people or their representatives are reluctant to provide adequate taxes for the school system which the citizens want.

Pride in having the best possible schools is worthy. Willingness to pay for them is also a mark of civic merit. They should go together.—Toledo Blade.

Reasons for Tuberculin Test.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

PARENTS with children in school almost everywhere nowadays, have to decide whether they will approve of having the children tested with tuberculin.

Possible objections may fall under three heads:

(1) It may be harmful.
(2) What good will it do?
(3) The parents may dread that they will be informed of the existence of tuberculosis.

Two of these we may dispose of immediately. Tuberculin testing, as done by modern methods, does no harm either to the normal child or to the one with incipient tuberculosis.

The third objection—the dread of discovery of the disease—is one of those peculiar pieces of psychoboy that tuberculosis workers have had to deal with since time immemorial. The only thing that cold logical reason can do to combat it is to say that the disease is curable in the early stages. the tuberculin test helps to detect it in the earlier stages. and if you let it go to the later stages it is much more difficult to cure. Besides, so far as the dread knowledge goes, when the disease develops to the later stages you will know anyway.

Now, as to the remaining question which concerns the rationable of the precedure as to a diagnostic aid.

The tuberculin test was introduced by Koch, who was the discoverer of the casual germ of tuberculosis. He found by accident that if an animal with tuberculosis has injected under the skin a small amount of tuberculin, a spot of redness will develop at the site of the injection.

This is all there is to the tuberculin test, but the interpretation of it is complicated. Anyone who has ever had tuberculosis reacts. And as over half the population has had tuberculosis at some time, and most of them have healed spontaneously, the question arises, in the presence of a positive tuberculin test, of whether the case is active or not.

Actual results in the Chadwick clinic on 50,000 high school students showed that about half of them reacted. When these were segregated and examined by X-ray and other methods, it was found that one out of twenty had an active case. Most of these were in an early stage, so cure was possible, and this justifies the advice that the tuberculin test is a valuable procedure.

As Others See It

Effect and Cause.

It is an unhappy fact that so large a part of the population, as the president says, is "ill-housed, ill-clad and ill-fed." The trouble is the New Deal policies are putting people on relief, not on jobs where they can earn enough to remedy the situation.—Kansas City Star.

Same Old Story.

France is now having dire trouble with the theory that less work and more pay is the way to arrive at an economic Utopia. We can't seem to escape the unyielding dictum, "In the sweat of thy face thou shalt eat bread."—Toledo Blade.

Young America Asks---

Is Safety Safe?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

HERE'S one of those letters which both wring your heart and puzzle your head; the letter of a young wife who's sick to despair of insecurity . . . and who believes that GUARANTEED JOBS would end her and her nation's long trouble. BUT WOULD IT?

Guaranteed jobs would put a new rug on the living room floor . . . new canned goods on the pantry shelf, yes. But at the same time they'd be changing the whole basis of American life . . . taking away the risk and initiative that have made the fighting Yankee what he is. Would it be a good swap? IS SAFETY SAFE? Think it over as you read—

"Dear Elsie Robinson—

"Eight years of depression have carried me, and millions of other Americans, to the depths of despair. Every home is in need of something . . . every citizen is haunted by fear. God meant men to walk erect, not to be trapped like this. Personally I believe the cure is GUARANTEED WAGES.

"If every employer would guarantee an adequate wage to his employes, then money would start rolling in its old prosperous cycle from buyer to seller, from seller to bank, from bank to employer, then back to the worker against. SECURITY FOR AMERICAN WORKERS WOULD END THE DEPRESSION!"

Mrs. Stachowicz—age 26,
Menasha, Wis.
((($10 prize winner.)

"Security and depression—." I wonder. God knows, every decent citizen—and especially those of us who remember the horror of hunger and homelessness — would wish to see such misery abolished. But would such measures abolish it? Remember, THE MINUTE YOU ARE GUARANTEED ANYTHING, YOU PUT A MORTGAGE ON YOUR LIFE. It becomes no longer the free, self-sufficient thing American life was planned to be. Somebody must pay for that "guarantee." The other fellow pays in taxes. You pay in self-respect.

For when you take the risk out of life you take out the initiative, too. And when initiative goes, pride goes with it. Once you hated to lean. Now you lean a little . . . a little more. Soon you're willing to lean altogether. That's the real tragedy of depression. Not poverty but loss of pride.

Think it over, you and you and YOU. WOULD SAFETY BE SAFE FOR AMERICA?

NEXT—HOW ABOUT THOSE NATIONAL LOTTERIES? James J. Jeanesville of New York City thinks they—not guaranteed wages—are the answer to Hard Times.

"Dear Miss Robinson:

"Everyone knows that the sale of 'sweepstake tickets' has greatly increased these last years. With so many older people unemployed and so many young graduates unable to find jobs, why shouldn't we keep this money at home and solve our unemployment and economic problems? I SUGGEST THAT NATIONAL LOTTERIES SHOULD BE ISSUED, SUPERVISED AND BACKED BY THE U. S. GOVERNMENT — THE PROCEEDS TO GO TO WORTHY CHARITABLE AND EDUCATIONAL PROJECTS.

"Since the gambling instinct is inherent in every one except prudes, all young people should urge legislation for a national sweepstake lottery. This would put all of us youngsters to work where we rightfully belong."

James J. Jeanesville—age 25,
New York City.
($10 prize winner.)

But would national lotteries put you to work, youngster—or would it make bums of us all?

It's true, the gambling instinct is in us all. So's murder. That doesn't mean that either is right or profitable. Actually gambling is one of the most dangerous impulses in human nature. If you want to see what happens to a people who have lived by gambling visit any old mining camp. See the dreamers who drift through life because, once, they 'made a lucky hit." Now they live in dreams of making another hit. Regular work? They resent the suggestion. Every cent they can beg or steal goes to some gaming table—or some hole in the ground. The mad excitement of CHANCE has devoured them . . . eaten away all healthy initiative and pride.

That's why GAMBLING IS VICIOUS. Not because it wastes men's money BUT BECAUSE IT WRECKS THEIR INITIATIVE. . . . LEAVES THEM DRUGGED WITH DREAMS.

* * *

THEN here's a letter which carries no argument but will warm every heart that reads it. Says Myrtle Anna Beasley of Warren, Ark.

"Dear Elsie:

"In these helter-skelter days, we youngsters are usually in such a rush that we rarely stop to consider the one who makes the wheels turn at home—MOTHER. We hurry home from school or office, snatch a bite, begin a frantic search for that tennis racquet or that pair of hose—which Mother will eventually produce—THEN WE'RE OFF FOR AN EVENING OF FUN.

"We never ask Mother if she's tired,—or wouldn't she like some help or if she'd like to go out with us sometime.

"WHY NOT TAKE HER TO A MOVIE? Why not pay her a compliment, tell her she doesn't look old enough to be our Mother, fuss over her a little, see that she is comfortable, like a boy would his best girl? It's a cinch we'd have the grandest evening ever! Let's try it, Young America!"

Myrtle Anna Beasley—age 20,
Warren, Arkansas.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—When a newspaperman starts out, invariably he keeps a scrap book of his writings as if they were precious things needing to be carefully preserved.

Gradually his ardor for pasting up his own product cools, and eventually he stops the practice entirely.

"I've often wondered what musicians, artists, writers, sculptors and other workers in esthetic fields do about keeping some sort of a bibliography of their works.

I have a feeling that their general course follows that of the newspaperman.

* * *

SHORTLY before his death Julian Hawthorne, author of four score of books, confessed to a friend that he had forgotten about many of the works he had written, and in fact possessed very few of them.

"I seem, however, to recall their cadavers, he remarked when the titles of some of his early fictions were mentioned.

But even younger men soon lose the inclination to keep records.

Take Arthur Schwartz, for instance. Though only thirty-six, he is the composer of a couple of hundred songs, many of them hit tunes, and of a lengthening list of succesful musical plays.

At first, as any young and proud composer might be expected to do, he bound collections of his songs in opulent leather folders, and kept them handy on his piano. But he finally gave that up just as the newspaperman gives up pasting clippings.

If you visit him in his windswept penthouse apartment on Park avenue and mention his songs he probably will drag out two or three of these bound volumes. But there isn't anything recent there by the wriiter of "Dancing In The Dark," "Alone Together," "Louisiana Hayride," and a score of other remembered scores.

"I've probably got copies around some place," he says vaguely. At any rate they no longer go into fancy leather folders and Schwartz probably would have a hard job rounding them all up.

ACTUALLY this attitude belies his legal training—he studied law and once practiced—for in the niceties of the law everything must be accurately tagged and cataloged.

But Schwartz does give the same legal training a certain credit for his success as a song writer.

He speaks of what he calls "logical music," by which I assume he means that each note is exactly the note that should be there—just as each word has its precise place in an important legal document - and as Schwartz does write "logical" music, the law thus can claim its credit.

A big, finely set up man, whose eyes are strikingly blue against a bronzed face, Schwartz finds his best musical inspiration in a contract for work.

Just to sit down to write a song for no other reason than to be writing it does not necessarily start the melodies flowing.

But if he has a commission for a show—that's something else, and he goes at it lustily. There seems to be something legal there also—like a lawyer being given a fat legal case to tackle.

Just now he is collaborating with J. P. McCoy on a fall musical show and his mind is becoming a swirl of melodies, although he hasn't brought them to paper yet.

OHIO EDUCATION GROUP HITS AT SCHOOL CRITICS

Brands C. of C. Report on Failure of Foundation Program 'Fallacious.'

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS — The Ohio Education association hit back at the Ohio Chamber of Commerce today, charging that the Chamber's report on the "failure" of the school foundation program was "fallacious" and "omitted certain pertinent facts."

W. B. Bliss, executive secretary of the OEA, said:

"It is exasperating to friends of schools to see the story of school recovery paraded as though it were an unseemingly thing, as though the public should turn and frown with disfavor upon it. Such is the effect of a recent study of Ohio schools made by the Ohio Chamber of Commerce."

Bliss reported that the Chamber had "failed to consider capital outlay and other deductions when estimating costs; furthermore the Chamber study covered only the period of 1933-38. It should have begun in 1931."

Points Out Declines.

"If the Chamber had gone back just one more year to 1932 it would have found a cost figure of $125,785,012 as against its 1933 figure of $96,544,114. But in that event the pattern of falling chips would have been sadly asked, for 1937 costs would have shown a decrease from that base of nearly $4,000,000, a decrease of 3 per cent.

"If the Chamber had gone back two years their 1937 total would have revealed a $27,000,000 decline in public school expenditures, a decrease of approximately 18 per cent."

The Chamber's estimate through the years on the increase of the cost per pupil was "wrong," Bliss said "because while there has been a 4.78 per cent decrease in elementary school pupils during the past five years, high school enrollment has increased 4.42 per cent."

Bliss pointed out that the cost of maintaining a high school pupil was 1½ per cent more than that of an elementary student.

"That accounts for the increase," he said.

Capital outlay and boundary changes as estimated by Bliss's staff, brought the Chamber of Commerce expenditure figures down. For instance the Chamber said that in 1933 the total cost of operation was $96,544,111 deducting $3,347,453 in capital outlay and boundary changes brings the "true figure" to $93,206,661, Bliss said.

All of the Chamber of Commerce estimates on operating expenses were reduced by the OEA after deductions had been made.

Cobb, however, traveled at the terrific speed of 342.53 miles an hour.

gated the accident as they were returning from a fire on the Alva Foreman farm west of Shelby. They said Bull was extricated from the overturned machine by passing motorists who took both youths to the Shelby hospital.

Bull's body was removed to the Bollinger funeral home at Fredericktown today.

Surviving are his parents Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bull. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the Waterford church with Rev. Charles Perry, pastor officiating. Burial will be in Mound View cemetery, Mt. Vernon.

The 21-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Kent, Columbus, was treated at General hospital Saturday afternoon for a severe cut on the face sustained when thrown through the windshield as Kent swerved his car into a utility pole to avoid hitting a child who had run into the street near 131 Glessner avenue.

James Young, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Young, 122 Glenwood boulevard, was treated for lacerations, police said, when he rode his bicycle from a driveway on Marion avenue into the path of a car operated by Harry O. Byers, 4 Tremont street, Saturday afternoon.

William Short, 44, of 102 West Dickson avenue, and John Reno, 26, Brooklyn, N. Y., received treatment for head lacerations when cars operated by Short and Frank Wilson, 25, Useppa, Fla., figured in a collision on U. S. route 42, seven miles north of Mansfield at 5:45 a. m. today.

Kenneth Berry, 32, of 56 East Third street, was treated for cuts sustained when the car in which he was riding with Joseph P. Thin, 505 Van Buren street, turned over on route 39, south of the city yesterday.

Eleanor Schweizer, Toledo, was arraigned in municipal court today on charges of careless and reckless driving as the result of a collision on route 13, 11 miles north of Mansfield Saturday.

State highway patrolmen said her car ran into the rear of a wagon driven by C. J. Newsbaum, R. D. 2, Shiloh, who received back and head injuries.

Convicted on the charge, Miss Schweizer was fined $20 and costs and her operator's license suspended for 60 days.

'MR. SAWYER' GET THE JOB IF ONLY HE CAN RECALL HIS NAME

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — He is the man who doesn't exist!

For the sake of convenience he has taken the name of Sawyer.

He may have to spend his time in jail unless somebody discovers that he does exist.

Here's his story:

The man remembers "coming to" in Norfolk, Va., about February, 1938. He bore evidence of a terrific physical beating. Doctors said he had amnesia. Within a few days he was normal, except that he couldn't remember anything of his past life.

Several companies offered him a job. He accepted, but they couldn't hire him. He had no social security card, and he couldn't get one unless he could state how old he was and where he was born.

Eventually in the summer he wound up in the District of Columbia jail accused of vagrancy. Released from jail, he tried to join the army and navy, but the services wouldn't take him because he could NOT give his right name.

He went back to jail of his own accord, and now the detective bureau of the District of Columbia police department would like to know what they're going to do with him.

Mr. Sawyer—or whatever his name is—is interested, too.

Warns Against Counterfeit, 5 Fake Bills Found

Richland county merchants today were warned to examine closely currency of large denominations following the discovery this morning of several counterfeit bills in Mansfield.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates reported the detection of five fake $10 bills cashed by merchants over the week-end.

The bills were discovered at the Washington lunch, 124 North Main street; Roma lunch, 237 North Main street; Sferro's lunch, 29 East Sixth street, and the Recreation Billiards, 23 North Park street.

Bates said the spurious notes, all silver certificates, were cleverly made and that detection was possible only by close scrutiny. He said the ink on the bills was a little darker than that used by the government.

The nationalists reported today that they were pushing slowly forward in the Sierra De Los Caballos region but the loyalists said that the attack had been broken.

A 43-mile-an-hour wind and severe lightning accompanied the second storm. Streets and basements were flooded and a number of homes in the city were struck by lightning.

Temperatures in the Mansfield district continued well above normal. The high yesterday was 88, and at noon today the mercury registered 82 degrees.

5,000 SEE MANSFIELD GIRL'S 98TH 'CHUTE JUMP AT AIRPORT

Gretchen Reighard, Mansfield parachute jumper, made her 98th jump from an airplane at the municipal airport yesterday before an estimated crowd of 5,000 persons.

Every available parking space at the west end of the field was taken by what airport officials said was the largest crowd at the field in recent years.

Miss Reighard made her jump from a 17-passenger Ford trimotor airliner brought here yesterday by Major Leslie G. Mulzer, veteran Army Air corps reserve officer, now on a barnstorming tour.

Pilot "Slim" Workhaven of Columbus with whom the Mansfield girl made her first parachute jump more than four years ago was at the controls of the plane.

"Bailing out" directly over the field at a height of 2,000 feet, Miss Reighard was caught in the air currents which threatened for a time to carry her far beyond the field in a speedy drop. By working the shrouds, however, she managed to bring herself to a safe landing in the center of the field.

J. R. "Bud" Harrington, airport manager, followed the big ship in his plane and took motion pictures of Miss Reighard during her descent.

Airport officials reported today that more than 500 persons were carried aloft in the tri-motored plane which made sight-seeing tours over the city until after dark last night.

Bold Scotch Plaids Are Colorful for Autumn Attire

Scotland's gayest tartans furnish the designs for scores of this year's school frocks. It's the biggest plaid season the juvenile fashion world has known in years. The 'fall-fashion" chosen by this athletic ten-year-old miss is a lightweight wool frock plaided in red, brown and yellow and made on the bias except for the front panel. Other plaid frocks are designed of cottons as well as wools and appear in such lively color combinations as blue, red and green, or brown, green and gold. Both simple dresses with white "schoolgirl collars" and shoulder-strap skirts worn over pullover-sweaters or washable blouses are shown.
